CANED HIS WIFE

Schoolmaster Who
Thought He Had Right

SEPARATION ORDER

An amazing story of a schoolmaster who made his wife strip and then caned or smacked her was told at Highgate, London, when Ernest Henry Houghton, giving an address at Duke's Avenue, Church End, Finchley, was summoned by his wife for persistent cruelty.

Mr. Ricketts, for the wife, said that before her marriage she was a schoolmistress. The husband was a schoolmaster, and both were B.A.s.

Three or four years ago the husband got it into his head that if his wife displeased him he should correct her.

His method of correction was to cause her to strip and hand over a chair, when he smacked her with his hand or with a cane. Though the conduct was repeated the wife made no complaint to her parents, but when suffering from a nervous breakdown the husband told them, and the mother said that if he did really beat her daughter she would have to take her away.

He replied that she would not leave him.

In view of his nervous state, said Mr. Ricketts, the mother and father thought he was suffering from delusions, and got him to promise that if he had smacked his wife in the past he would cease doing so in the future. The smacking, however, continued.

The wife felt that if she resisted the punishment would have been heavier than it was.

THREATENED TO THRASH HER.
Coming to the time the wife left her husband, Mr. Ricketts said that early in the week he threatened her that if she made three domestic mistakes that week he would thrash her at the week-end. She made a mistake, and remembering his threat to beat her at the week-end she left him and went to her parents.

When she left her husband she was unable to take the five children of the marriage with her, but she had managed since to collect them. Each one of the children bore signs of recent caning, and the husband seemed to be a man who thought he had a right to inflict violence on anyone, be it a child or his wife.

The wife, giving evidence, was asked if she resisted her husband's behaviour. She replied that she thought that if she gave in she would appease him. For the little punishment she received she did not wish to wreck their marriage.

"He was always nice to me afterwards," she added. "He gave me a cup of tea."

Mrs. Houghton, replying to Mr. Ricketts, said that her husband received a salary of from £400 to £500 a year.

The Bench, granting a separation, ordered Houghton to pay his wife £2 a week and 10s. a week in respect of each of the five children, the wife to have the custody of the children. He was also ordered to pay two guineas costs.

MRS. MAX BAER

WANTS TO REVERT TO MAIDEN NAME.

Dorothy Dunbar Baer, former wife of Max Baer, the world heavyweight boxing champion, wants to become "Miss Wells" again, says Reuter from Los Angeles. She has petitioned to be allowed to revert to her maiden name, saying that the publicity attached to the name Baer is distasteful to her.

Mrs. Baer was granted a "mail order" divorce from Baer to October. The boxer signed a document enabling the decree to be granted by mutual consent on grounds of incompatibility.

CHIC LINEN SUIT

Worn with Blouse of Spotted Muslin

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

"For day wear there is something specially smart in the form of a suit of white, uncrushable linen, with blouse of white and black spotted muslin."

For Your Note-Book

DOORS of cupboards and built-in fittings in new houses are often found to stick at first. This difficulty can be overcome by rubbing the edges and the frame with a prepared wax polish.

RUB butter or some oil on to burns and scalds immediately they happen. More often than not you can prevent a nasty burn by being prompt with the butter.

IF you wring out lace and muslin frocks in milk instead of starch it will stiffen them sufficiently.

SILK stockings which have become stained from one's shoes can be successfully cleaned by rubbing the stains with a cut lemon dipped in salt.

NOTHING SAFE

SOUVENIR HUNTERS STRIP MUSEUM.

"Everything that is not bolted down" has been stolen from the Franklin Institute Museum, according to an announcement made by Mr. L. G. Schlehner, the superintendent.

Mr. Schlehner blames souvenir hunters, vandals, and mischievous school children for these depredations, says Reuter. "Some of them," he says, even bring screwdrivers and wrenches to carry out their depredations.

Among the articles stolen were a 400 years old Chinese oboe, a tiny piece of printing type inscribed with the Lord's Prayer, the microscope through which the printing was read, wireless valves, sparking plugs, telegraph keys, aeroplane parts, and a five-shilling watch.

One enterprising visitor tied a length of heavy rope around a huge aeroplane engine on the second floor and threw the other end of the rope out of the window with the idea of pulling the engine through.

Mr. Jacob Van den Bergh, of Lyndhurst road, Hampstead, a flower of the margarine industry in this country, who died, aged 85, left £259,147 "so far as at present can be ascertained." With not personally £209,758, on which £49,389 has been paid on account of estate duty.

SOME COSTLY BLUNDERS

CIVIL SERVICE DEAL LOSS

How a Ministry of Labour "change of mind" cost the country over £23,000 is revealed in the civil and revenue votes expenditure report issued by the Public Accounts Committee.

A site had been purchased in Bristol in 1925 for a new employment exchange, but was abandoned four years later owing to violent local opposition, chiefly on the ground that it was a main thoroughfare.

A proposal to erect an Inland Revenue building on the same site also aroused local opposition on the ground that it was right off the beaten track.

The total expenditure of the Office of Works on accrued rents and other outlays amounted to £29,488 by September 1933, when an offer to buy the site for £5,750 was received and accepted. The net loss on the transaction had therefore exceeded £23,000.

The Committee had ascertained, continues the report, that while it was not yet possible to state the final capital cost of the new Royal Hospital School at Holbrook, the total expenditure was expected to reach nearly £1,100,000, as compared with estimates of from £950,000 to £970,000.

That large outlay had provided the main buildings for 1,000 boys, but living accommodation only for 850, whereas the school at Greenwich had a complement between 900 and 1,000.

The capital cost per boy, therefore, represented about £1,250 while the average annual cost per boy had risen from £70 to £97 per annum, and the Committee "cannot but think that these figures represent a somewhat lavish scale of expenditure."

SEASIDE SUN-BATHING PROTEST

"Distasteful," Says Westgate

Westgate-on-Sea is shocked by the conduct of bathers and sun-bathers, and a beach inspector has been warned to keep a watchful eye for the insufficiently clad.

Many letters and verbal protests have been made to the Parish Council.

"Objection has been taken to bathers who slip down the top portions of costumes and sprawl about the promenades, greens and sands sun-bathing," said the chairman, Mr. C. E. Whitlock, at the Council meeting.

"On the promenade at St. Mildred's Bay," he continued, "a man was seen completely nude and dressed himself leisurely. Westgate must set an example to other resorts and prevent a repetition of such distasteful conduct."

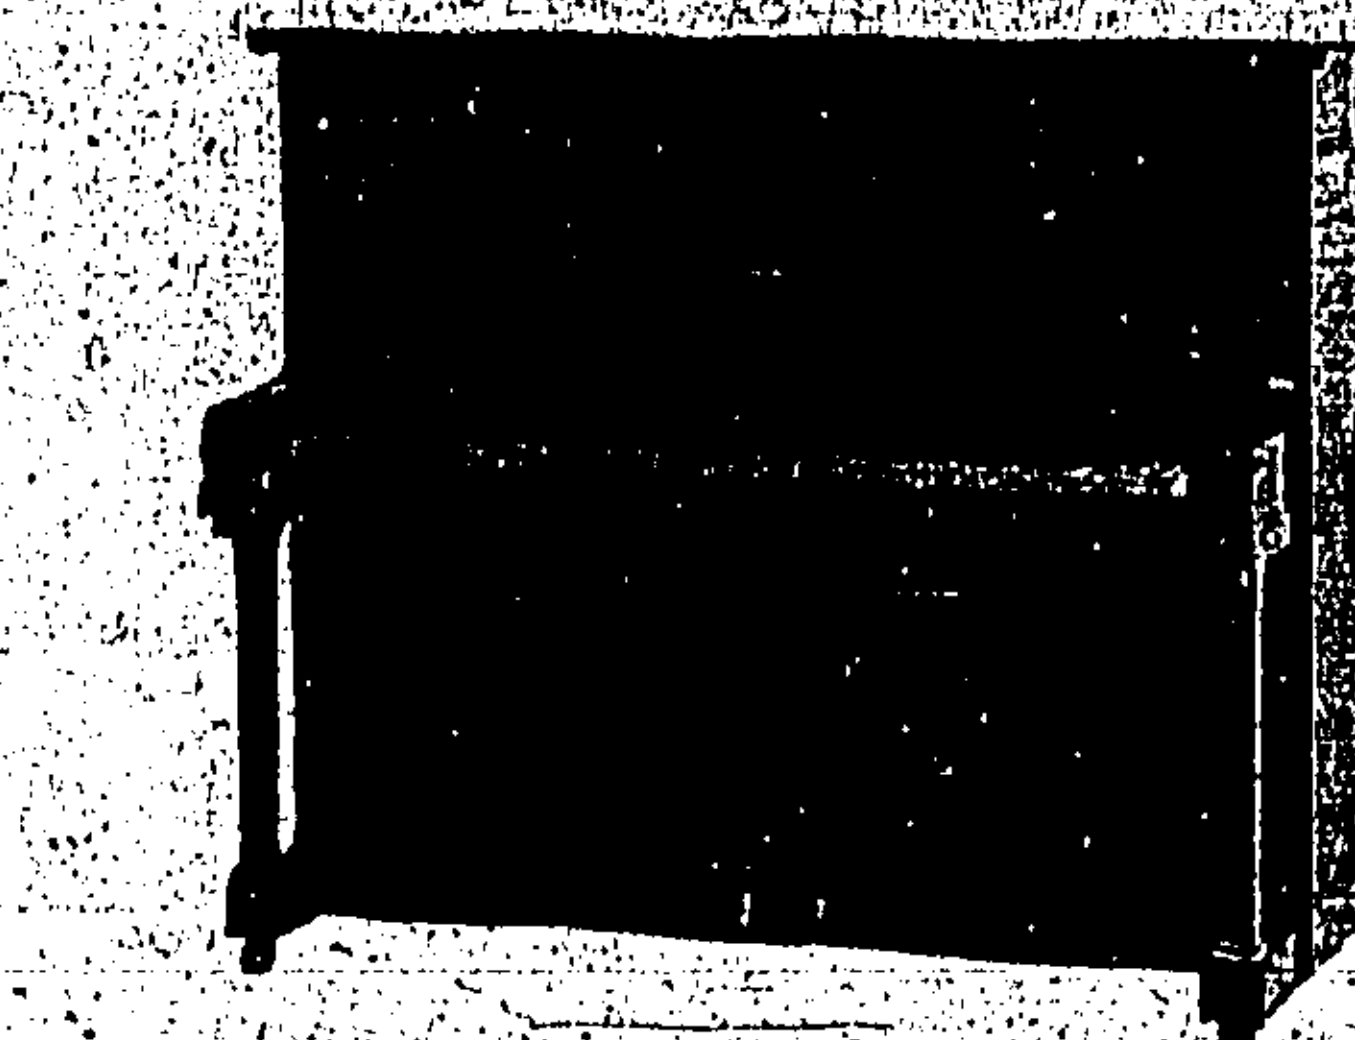

Mr. Longrigg said that one Sunday he saw ten young people of both sexes lying sun-bathing on the sea-front with costumes dropped below the waist.

A resident on the sea-front, he added, complained of visitors who came in cars and, after undressing lay about the ground in exaggerated stages of undress.

WILL BAN ON DEALING

An unusual bequest in a will was made by Mr. George Turner, a retired draper, of High Street, Winslow (Bucks), who left £8,063. He stated:—

"If either my daughter or grand-daughter shall at any time use the income they may receive under my will or any part thereof either directly or indirectly in the business of buying, selling, breeding, or upkeep of any horses, ponies or greyhounds, they shall immediately lose and forfeit all interest thereunder."

CHAPTER XXV

The last day of Commencement the dean's wife telephoned, in a flurry. "Amy, Rufus is terribly sick, one of those awful stomach upsets he has when he gets too tired, and I'm in such a fix—we were to have two of the trustees for dinner to-night, you know, Wilbur Barney and Louis Prentice, a couple of old tycoons as ever were. Could you take them? I'll send over the whole dinner, all cooked, and a maid to serve it. And listen, Amy, there's plenty for a dozen, so ask some more people if you feel equal to it. There's gallons of soup and three roast ducks, and I'll send cocktails and some really good old Burgundy Rufus has been saving, and, oh, Amy, do give them a real time. They've both been so generous with the Endowment Fund and we want them now to do something about the scholarships—you see how it is! I do wish you could dig up an entertaining pretty woman or two, but I suppose that's impossible. Marburg might be so far as extra women are concerned, but of course they'll enjoy you, dear. They haven't got their wives with them, thank heaven!"

It was a nuisance, thought Amy, but she could not refuse. She knew both Mr. Prentice and Mr. Barney. They were, as the dean's wife had said, tycoons, and rather formidable tycoons, too. Greedy, and autocratic. Now who on earth could she rake up as extra guests at this late hour—not her father and mother, for they had a party of their own. Indeed no one in the faculty circle was available, not even an unattached instructor. Edgar Moreland and his pretty young wife. Yes, they might come. She telephoned at once and they accepted. Then she remembered Miss Rosa Terry. "Miss Rosa's a good bit of a tycoon herself. She ought to get along with them," she reflected. She'd been neglecting Miss Rosa lately. This would make up.

Miss Rosa's voice, over the wire, sounded very sprightly. "Why, I'd love it, Amy, only—Jane's here again for a day or so, come to finish up some of my business. But I daresay she won't mind."

"Oh, bring Jane along—no, it will even up the table instead of throwing it out. Half past seven, then." She realized as she put down the phone how completely Jane had faded out of her thoughts, and that she didn't matter any longer. The stress of worrying about Howard had finished Jane with Amy.

There was plenty to do to get ready for the dinner. The dining-room required extra cleaning. Leaves must be put into the table, glass and china and silver arranged for a strange maid's serving. Mrs. Pearce, ever available, would help. She had been on hand every day during Commencement Week, because Amy had to be out so much. She could give Nancy her supper and put her to bed and still be ready to open the door for the guests and later help behind the scenes. Amy wondered what to wear. She had only two evening dresses and one had been torn to rags at the Senior dance. The other and older was very tired and shabby and just now spotted from a spilled mayonnaise at a reception. Even if she could find time to clean it, it would look of benzine.

With quick resolution she went to the closet and took down her wedding dress, unwrapped it from its enfolding tissue paper and muslin. It was not in style, but its simplicity, the quality of its ivory satin made it dateless, classic. She stood with it in her hands, thinking of her wedding day, of Howard. He would like to see her again in that dress. "My dear love! You and I have had so much happiness. And nothing, nothing can take that away from us." The stinging of tears came up behind her eyes, but she shook it away. She must not, she must not begin to speak of that happiness as if it was already ended.

When Howard came in, late and hurrying, she was already dressed and the shining satin was covered by an engulphing apron, the skirt tucked up, while she finished the last things in dining room and kitchen. That was why he did not see her until he ran downstairs just as the first guests rang the bell. He stopped and exclaimed: "Why, Amy—darling! You look like an angel—that lovely dress!"

"Do you remember it?" "Do!" What do you take me for? He could not go on, for Mr. Prentice was entering, red and puffy and obviously disgruntled at being switched from the dean to an obscure and young member of the faculty. But he unbent at sight of Amy with the cocktail tray in the background. Perhaps it would not be too bad, after all.

And now Edgar Moreland was coming and Alice, his wife—pink cheeks and curly hair and ruffled pink organdy—and at the sight of another pretty woman Mr. Prentice began definitely to brighten. Barney was next, tall and gray and sceptical, but he also liked pretty women and cocktails and was much less assertive of himself and his money and opinions and prejudices than Prentice, being better bred and surer of himself and having the advantage of height. He gazed about him critically, observed that the room showed the usual professorial good taste and lack of means, but that his hostess was an extraordinary creature. Really he had not expected Lowe's little girl to grow up to such distinction. He took his cocktail and sipped it, watching Amy appreciatively.

And now Jane and Miss Rosa were coming in, Miss Rosa trailing her best black chiffon and glittering with her entire set of old pink topaz, necklace, brooch, bracelets, earrings, and behind her, with the expression of one who lends her self to a small town diversion with kindly patronage, came Jane. Jane at her most sophisticated in a bareback golden frock, pointed up with a jade cigarette holder and an enormous jade clasp on her girdle. Jane expected no competition in that costume. She had brought it with her, knowing that this was Commencement Week and hoping against hope for one chance to show it off in Marburg where Howard might see her in it. She had not anticipated the luck to wear it in his own house.

The borrowed maid appeared at the door. "Dinner is served, Mrs. Jackson," she murmured.

Amy led them out, seated them—Howard at the head, Miss Rosa at his right. Yes, and she would put Jane at his left, Mr. Barney at the foot, Alice at his left and Prentice between Alice and Jane, leaving Edgar and herself to fill the other side. Prentice beamed to find himself between these two attractive young women. Miss Rosa always got along well with Howard and Edgar. Jane alone was discontented, that fat little pig beside her was clamouring for her attention. She wanted to talk only to Howard.

She wondered if he had asked to have her beside him or if Amy had arranged it. At any rate, there she was and she would make the most of it. "I must finish my story about Mr. Sears," she said, eagerly. "You remember, the man whose house you wouldn't help me buy?"

At the same time Mr. Barney opened with an easy gambit to Amy. "Aren't those old-fashioned Pink Daily roses in your centrepiece? I haven't seen any for years. They used to grow in my grandmother's garden in Maryland when I was a little chap." "They grow in my garden," said Amy. "They only last a little while, but I love the colour. And wasn't it clever of Alice to wear a dress that matches them exactly?"

It was even cleverer, thought Mr. Barney, that she had passed him over so neatly to the girl in pink. "I must tell Lowe, if I see him again, that his daughter's a wonder. By George, she'd stand out anywhere. Beautiful and gracious, excellent. She had the sense to keep everything within her limits, no trying for effect or putting on style. I wonder where she got the Burgundy. It tastes like a Romance-Costi, be hanged if it doesn't."

Amy did not know that she was getting the credit for the dean's cellar and the dean's cook. But she did know that the dinner was going, as Edgar had predicted, with a bang. The two eminent trustees were mellow to the point of forgetting their eminence. Edgar had teased Miss Rosa into a fit of phuck-les. Alice was pinker and rounder-eyed than ever from excitement and Jane was retelling dramatically the final scene of the Sears purchase to Howard and Prentice, for she had discovered at once that she could not command Howard's undivided attention. His glance kept straying down the table to Amy.

As the dinner went on Jane saw clearly that it was Amy to whom everyone was involuntarily turning. She drew them without effort and there was a sort of wistful seeking in their gaze, as if they felt a beauty which held something rare and inscrutable. It made Jane angry. "What is it?" she thought, "I can't understand it. I simply can't. There she sits in that old white dress and she isn't exerting herself, but they're all centred on her. Even this ape, Prentice who

FATAL STREET DASH.

BOY KILLED OUTRIGHT BY CHINA MOTOR BUS

A Chinese youngster's fatal dash across Queen's Road West on July 14 was the subject of a Coroner's inquiry yesterday on Yuen Pui, (8), of 397, Queen's Road West.

The boy met his death from a China Motor Bus, which was being driven westwards near Water Street and, though braked smartly by the driver, caught the unfortunate juvenile with the front off-side of the radiator and caused instantaneous death.

The driver, Chan Fuk, was exonerated from all blame in the jury's verdict of "Accidental death."

The Coroner was Mr. Macfadyen and the jury comprised Messrs. A. H. Silva (foreman), Choi Ping-sum, and Ng Kang-ching.

Medical evidence was given by Dr. L. D. Pringle, who said the boy had several fractures of the skull and bruises.

The father gave evidence of identification.

Bus Conductor Ip Cheong-ping said the accident happened about 3.30 p.m. when the bus had just slowed down near a stop and had crossed Water Street to surmount a slight incline. The boy simply dashed into the front of the bus.

A pretty Chinese female, Leung Man-chi said she was a passenger in the bus but could throw no light on the fatality. She did not know which was the near and which the off side of the vehicle.

Chan Fuk, the driver, said that he was in second gear going slowly up the hill. On his near side was a heap of stones and when abreast of these, a young boy dashed suddenly across the road in the path of the bus. He did not look at the bus which was swerved violently to the left in an unsuccessful effort to avoid him. Without retiring, the jury returned a verdict as above in accordance with the direction of the Coroner.

ASIATIC LABOUR CONDITIONS

Lower standards of living and wages represent an important factor in the intensive commercial competition which the West has to face from Eastern manufacturers. This fact was evidently in mind when, during the discussion on the annual report of the Director of the International Labour Conference at Geneva recently, emphasis was laid on the desirability of calling an advisory conference composed of representatives of Governments, employers and workers of Asiatic countries, with a view to considering the conditions of labour obtaining in the Far East. This idea has the support of the Asiatic Labour Congress, representative of Ceylonese, Indian and Japanese workers, which met some little time ago at Colombo. One of the reasons why International Labour Conventions have not been given effect to in Asiatic countries is that they have been framed with special reference to European conditions. The point is, however, gradually being realised that if these conventions are to have any real value, they must be based on an international labour code and a universal standard, to which all nations should adhere. If such standards are laid down with existing labour and industrial conditions in mind, there should be a far greater prospect than at present of securing more ratifications of the conventions. In China, particularly, the contract system is one of the obstacles to be overcome. Under it, workers are employed through contractors at low rates of wages, with no direct relations between employers and workers, and, as is easily understandable, the system has given rise to great abuses. Indeed, a delegate to the Geneva conference recently asked that body to take steps with a view to pressing for the abolition of the system. Hopes of action are now centred on the calling of a special Asiatic Conference, in which connection the suggestion is advanced that the Governments of the countries chiefly concerned should sponsor such a step. Whether such a development is likely to occur remains to be seen. But it is becoming increasingly apparent that Asiatic workers are likely as time goes on to demand better

NOTES OF THE DAY PEACE BALLOT

A flying start has been made in England in the organisation of the Peace Ballot, the plans for which were sprung upon an unsuspecting public a few weeks ago. The intention is to poll as many as possible for people of both sexes over the age of 18, totalling some 35,000,000 at the present time, and it will be considered satisfactory if an expression of opinion is secured from a third of them. Obviously, even the vote of a third may be accepted as representative of the general feeling in the country. The Peace Ballot calls for answers to five questions affecting national policy, such as continued membership of the League, disarmament, private manufacture of arms, sanctions against an aggressor. As an experiment in unofficial plebiscites it is an exceedingly interesting project.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

The Peace Ballot will serve in a measure unattainable by any other means, the two supreme purposes of educating public opinion and putting public opinion upon record. The first will follow from the presentation of the questions. But at the present critical juncture the second purpose is even more urgent. Where the British people stand must be known clearly and indisputably. Such knowledge is necessary for the peace and security of Britain and of the whole world. The Ballot will have an unequalled usefulness, provided the public response is as great as expected, for the Government as well as for the League and friends of the League. It is understood that the British example is being closely watched in other countries, in the hope that it will be widely imitated. The method is valuable in many ways; it might even compel governments to listen to the voice of the people.

ART FOR MORALS' SAKE

Great Britain, like most other countries, has not yet discovered any really satisfactory method of dealing with socially deleterious films and until they do there is very little that can be done to remove such complaints as are made in Hongkong. The British Board of Film Censors is a trade body, without absolute authority, and there is a strong feeling that it does not apply rigorously the moral standards which those concerned with the welfare of the young consider desirable. Hence it has been suggested that an artistic censorship be established to supplement, or even to supersede, the activities of the board. Among those most seriously working for the welfare and prosperity of art, there is little or no enthusiasm for an exclusively moral censorship. Even the censorship of plays in England, which of late years has been exercised with great discretion, at times has banded against itself many of the most eminent dramatists. An unwise censorship, according to this view, might keep a masterpiece from the public; and to guard against this disservice some persons seem willing to allow the presentation of innumerable film or stage entertainments which have neither artistic nor moral merit.

UNION OF FORCES?

Thus it happens that two influential classes—those who disapprove of worthless films on artistic grounds, and those who disapprove of them on moral grounds—are disunited, with the result that films which both dislike are exhibited without any effective protest. Such a situation gives satisfaction to no one. Yet there is no real reason for this divorce between the progressive sections of the community. If there is one fact which the history of art and literature has really proved, it is this: that no fundamentally immoral work is artistically valuable. On this foundation a union of forces is surely possible. A movement that had for its object the granting of certificates of screening only to such films as made an honest effort after artistic merit might accomplish work of great cultural and social value.

conditions than those under which the great majority at present labour. And the movement will have to be faced sooner or later. The disparity in wage and living standards as between the West and the East is so marked, however, that very many years must elapse before any appreciable impression is made thereon. None the less, the tendency must be in the direction of a gradual narrowing of the gap, and this must obviously be done by the raising of Eastern standards.

FRONTIERS NOW OVERSEAS

THE NEW NATIONAL STRATEGY

By Major-General Sir C. W. GWYNN.

THERE can be little doubt that the weight of public opinion supports the Government in its decision to revise the standards on which the Fighting Services have recently been maintained. It has evidently become necessary that our national policy should have an adequate backing to guarantee our security and to exercise a restraining influence on any nation which may seek to resort to war.

But the possession of armed forces is not in itself sufficient. They must be prepared and held in readiness for application on a well-defined strategic conception which has the will of the nation behind it. There exists, however, a marked divergence of view as to the lines our national strategy should follow, and the question is whether, under modern conditions, we have any real choice in the matter as is sometimes claimed.

One school of thought asserts that in the Great War we departed, mistakenly, from our traditional national strategy by taking a direct part in the main struggle. It asserts that we should have confined our efforts to naval pressure and to detached operations designed indirectly to influence the events in the main theatre; and that, therefore, in any future war we should revert to this course, which is claimed to be our traditional strategy. The other school maintains that in the Great War we could not, in the first instance, at any rate, have left Belgium and France without direct assistance.

Whether, when the War had stabilised on the Western Front, we might with advantage have transferred our main effort to another theatre is a different matter. The first crisis had passed, and the entry of Turkey into the War introduced new problems for solution. The essential point is that, in the first critical period, no attempt to land an expedition on the German coast, or an attack on her outlying possessions, would have been of material assistance to our Allies.

That surely was what Foch and Sir Henry Wilson meant when, as recorded in the latter's diary, they agreed that our Navy could not bring appreciable relief to France. Their conclusion, interpreted literally, was, of course, nonsense, and it is sometimes quoted as an example of the extent to which soldiers fail to appreciate sea power. But may we not fairly assume that these distinguished soldiers must have realised that not a man or a gun of our Army could be landed in France without the protection of the Navy, and that they were merely discussing the question of direct or indirect assistance? Putting aside the many controversial questions connected with the Great War, should we be on safe ground in basing our present-day strategy on pre-war history?

When the Empire was expanding many of our distant enterprises had the object of acquiring new territory, and of consolidating our lines of sea communication quite as much as of affecting the European situation. The Navy was our guarantee of security, and the enemy's coast line was our strategic frontier. The security provided by the Navy gave us liberty to embark on acquisitive adventures, sometimes with disastrous though not fatal results. Yet we did not confine our efforts to distant enterprises, but were prepared to intervene in the main theatre when, as at Waterloo, restoration of the peace of Europe was the main object.

To-day expansion is wiped off our slate and our sole objects are security and peace to use to the best advantage what we have acquired. The Navy remains our main guarantee of security, but, with the advent of air power, we all recognise that it can no longer give us complete security. Our strategic frontier for home defence owing to the air threat lies not on the coast line, but in the hinterland of Western Europe. For that frontier we must be prepared to fight. We cannot allow an enemy to cross it in order to shorten the range of his air attack while remaining ourselves at long range from his vulnerable points.

Obviously our own security is more than ever involved with that of France, Belgium and Holland, and our national strategy in the interests of security centres round the problem of how we can come to their assistance if they are attacked. Is there any way of rendering assistance under modern conditions except by direct support? The Navy has been deprived of much of its power of exercising pressure unless neutral Powers are prepared to waive objections. To land an army in the territory of a civilised enemy possessing air forces and means of rapidly moving reinforcements to the point of attack is an operation which, if feasible at all, entails too many uncertainties to form an acceptable basis of any far-reaching plan. Even if a base for air operations only was required, a port and a considerable extent of ground would have to be captured and held.

Direct intervention—to assist allies who are in a position to offer us port facilities and room for the effective deployment of our Army and Air Force—is the only alternative. And assistance must be given without hesitation or delay if we are not to be faced again with the necessity of reclaiming lost ground. Moreover, in the interests of peace the greatest deterrent to an aggressor is the knowledge that immediate and direct assistance will be given to the nation which would bear the brunt of his attack.

Timely assistance, all the more effective if it implies an element of danger to the aggressor, is an obvious way of reducing the power of attack by strengthening that of defence, which the Disarmament Conference accepted as the most hopeful method of securing peace. To proclaim that never again should we allow ourselves to be drawn into direct participation in a European conflict is to bury our head in the sand. No reliance on

The Very Idea!

OUR OWN CENSUS

By Edith Kelly, Census-taker

SINCE the Registration of Aliens Ordinance came into force in Hongkong, 4,200 foreigners have registered their name with the police.

The information contained in the registration forms is said to be invaluable to the authorities.

Unfortunately, it doesn't go far enough.

The other day, for instance, a reader suggested that we should write some pen pictures of the prominent taipans in the Colony.

When we went to the police about it, they were quite rude. Said that what a taipan did after office hours was his own business, and, anyway, people who lived in glass houses, etc., and who were we to go probing into other people's affairs.

However, there's a case of beer hanging in the balance as a reward if we write these pen pictures, so we have drawn up a questionnaire of our own.

Taipans are particularly requested to clip this questionnaire, and forward it to us, together with next year's subscription to the Telegraph, at their earliest convenience.

outworn precedents will enable us to escape the implications of modern facts.

How, within the limits of tolerable expenditure, the Fighting Services can be made adaptable to their duties as an Imperial Police Force, and at the same time form an effective instrument for meeting the requirements of national strategy, is a sufficiently difficult problem in itself. It will be impossible to find a solution as long as we are doubtful as to the course of action our security demands.

NATIONALISATION OF SILVER

EIGHTY CENTS AN OUNCE?Nevada Operators'
Hopes

Reno, Nevada, Aug. 9. The nationalisation of silver will not have any immediate effect upon the Nevada silver mining industry in the opinion of operators here, as the nationalisation price has been fixed at a point lower than that established for newly-mined silver under the proclamation of December last.

American silver producers obtain 64.5 cents an ounce for their newly-mined metal.

There are no stocks of silver bullion held in Nevada at the present time as far as known.

EXECUTIVE RECOGNITION.

The Secretary of the Nevada Mine Operators Association, in an interview with Reuter, said that the President's proclamation gave silver the executive recognition for which the silver mines have been fighting.

Nevada operators are hoping for the stabilisation of the price of the metal at a price of eighty cents an ounce, or more, which they declare to be necessary for the profitable operation of large low-grade properties, the exploitation of which is now dormant, and to warrant the inception of development work.—Reuter.

STOCK EXCHANGE
REACTIONOrder Interpreted Inflationary

New York, Aug. 9.

The Wall Street Journal says that curb stocks, Grains and Commodities soared up due to the inflationary interpretation of the nationalisation of silver, which caught Wall Street by surprise after the President's bearish speech.

Traders found it necessary for some time to decide how to interpret the announcement, many regarding the move as a sop to silver interests rather than as an inflationary move. A rush of buying developed in the final hour of trading, the tickers lagging behind three minutes, with prices gaining as much as five points led by Silver and other stocks which inflation will benefit. Union Pacific has declared a dividend of $1.50 per share on Common stock. Bonds were lower due to the inflationary sentiment. The Dollar broke sharply due to selling by European operators on an inflation interpretation. The continued heat in the Mid-West helped Grain prices to reach new high levels.—Sloan, Culbertson and Fritz.

LONDON RISE.

London, Aug. 9.

The advance in the London price was chiefly due to American buying. China banks were selling but supplies were scarce. The market was steady, although the price was long before news of the nationalisation in America came through.—Sloan, Culbertson and Fritz.

LONDON STOCK
MARKETBRITISH FUNDS
FIRM

London, Aug. 9.

The stock markets generally closed to-night with a good tone. British funds maintained a firm front, with War Loan 3½ per cent. at 104½.

Brazilian bonds registered appreciable gains on recent messages indicating an improvement in the coffee position, whilst South American Railways finished firm, following a rise in grain values. South African mines made headway, whilst West Africans closed good.

Industrial shares mostly left off a trifle under the best points.—British Wireless.

HUANG FU BOUND

Nanking, Aug. 9.

General Huang Fu, Chairman of the Political Council of the Peking Administration, proceeded to Kuling via Nanking this afternoon.

Passing through Nanking, he informed pressmen that the Peking Administration will devote its energies to settling the so-called "war zone problems" one by one. He expressed confidence that North China will soon be more secure and peaceful.—Central News Agency.

SUGGESTION

London, July 26. George Bernard Shaw's latest "hunch" is that the world needs sanctuaries for human beings where they can be sure of not being shot.

On his 78th birthday, the white-haired Irish playwright declared that if the whole world could be made into a bird sanctuary that might be one of the most important steps towards making the world a sanctuary for human beings.

"There are no sanctuaries for human beings at present," Shaw said. "Although the arrangements for shooting them on the largest possible scale have been brought to a perfection never known before, nobody has yet started a society for the protection of human beings, and an institution of sanctuaries where they cannot be shot."

"I am not at all sure that the cult of making a sport of the slaughter of birds has not a great deal to do with that sort of kings—as it has been called—the slaughter of men."—United Press.

LONDON FASHION
IN SHOESHARD ON PYTHONS OF NIGERIA

London, Aug. 6. There may not be an awful lot of snake-charmers outside of circuses in the Old World these days, but British women are falling hard for the snakes as an aid to their charms just now, according to Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, the British Colonial Secretary.

As a result of imperial preference duties large quantities of python skins are coming to England from Nigeria to be made into shoes for the women of Britain, he stated.

The trade in pythons is making things so hot for the large snakes of Nigeria that the Emir of one district in the protectorate informed the Colonial Secretary that he was going to institute a close time for pythons during their breeding season. During that time it would be illegal to kill them.—United Press.

HITLER'S AMNESTY

POLITICAL PRISONERS MAY GO FREE

Berlin, Aug. 9.

The first official act of the supreme head of the nation, Herr Hitler, is the proclamation of an amnesty which will include those imprisoned for slander against Hitler himself or the Government of the Reich, and those convicted of acts against the national prestige, provided they were not deliberate or malicious.

Others who will have cause for gratitude are those convicted of acts resulting from Nazi over-zealousness.

The amnesty excludes those found guilty of acts of violence, terrorism, treason and high treason, under which headings come many of the men arrested following the June 30 affair.

Herr Hitler has also ordered an investigation of the cases of those in custody and in concentration camps who may be released if it is believed that it future they will refrain from opposition of the administration.

He has specially ordered that the cases connected with the Roehm revolt should be investigated in a generous spirit.—United Press.

The forthcoming weddings are announced of Mr. Guthbert Morgan Gowanlock, of the Prison Department, and Miss Ethel Margaret Ellerby, of Durham, en route to Hongkong, by the P. & O. Rawalpindi, and of Pte. Frederick George Lloyd, of the South Wales Borderers, and Miss Annie Loo, a nurse, of 137 Wanchai Road.

WOMAN TO HAD
SALVATION ARMY?

American citizen. She started as a captain in the Army in Maryland, when Army lasses were often subjected to rough treatment by louts who resented the Army's work. Evangeline Booth showed her daring by going all over England to work among ruffians in perilous neighbourhoods.

Her candidacy will not have smooth sailing. There will be echoes of a bitter fight of five years ago. There was a revolt against the leadership of her brother, Bramwell Booth, who was charged with nepotism and a desire to name his successor. Evangeline Booth was one of the leaders in the revolt against her brother. It ended in February, 1929, when the High Council finally declared Bramwell Booth to be unfit for service on account of the state of his health. It removed him from his post and elected General Higgins, who for ten years had been Chief of Staff. Bramwell Booth died a few months later.

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

Of the probable candidates against Evangeline Booth, Henry Mapp is highly favoured. Born in Bombay, he is the present Chief of Staff. A third candidate is Commissioner David Lamb, born in Scotland; he gave up his business as chemist to enter the Army, and now is the head of the Intelligence Office. The fourth name canvassed is that of Samuel Harrison, who is in charge of the William Booth Memorial Training College in London, which turns out about 400 Army officers each year.

ARAB'S THREAT

FRENCH FEAR OF FURTHER
RIOTS

Paris, Aug. 9.

The French authorities in Algeria are gravely perturbed over the possibility of further serious repercussions from Monday's Arab-Jewish riots, which occurred after an intoxicated Jewish Zouave created a disturbance in a Mussulman mosque, and resulted in many deaths. The affected area, the Department of Constantine, has virtually been put under martial law.

Although the funerals of the riot victims passed off without untoward incident, more trouble is stated to be brewing in the region around Constantine.

According to the Algiers correspondent of Le Soir, it is believed that Arabs from the interior are about to descend on Constantine to launch another violent attack on Jewish shops and troops have been hastily despatched to maintain order.

A certain amount of looting and incendiarism has already occurred in various localities of the Department of Constantine, and the Governor-General, M. Carle, is conferring with representatives of the Moslems and Jews with a view to avoiding further anti-Jewish pogroms.

Meanwhile, all the inhabitants of Constantine have been ordered to stay in their homes, and no movement is allowed in the streets without a special permit from the military authorities.—Reuter Special.

ACCUSED COMMITTED.

FATHER AND SON ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Charged with the manslaughter of Chan Man, a gardener of Hung Tso Village, New Territories, on July 5, Mak Ti-kwan, and his son, Mak Kam-hing, were committed for trial at the next Criminal Sessions by Mr. D. M. MacDougall, at the District Office South yesterday afternoon.

Cautioned before being committed, Mak Ti-kwan gave evidence on his own behalf, and stated he did not think the allegations about his son going off with the dead man's wife, were true. "My object of going to the village was to get work as a vegetable gardener," he said.

"I will make a statement at the Supreme Court," said the second accused.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lockhart-Smith, the first accused, stated that, when living at No. 53 Kramer Street, Tai Kok Tsui, his son called on him and asked him to take a position as a gardener with Mo Kau, at Hung Tso Village.

Accused denied his son had said anything regarding a row with deceased over his wife. All his son had said was that Chan Man's wife had abandoned and that he was suspected. He also denied that his object in going to the village was to make a row.

Accused stated that on July 5 he went to Mo Kau's house and had a meal.

Reverting to the scene in the matted, accused denied the statement that his son had taken part in the fight. He said that Chan Man, a 47-year-old son of deceased, had attacked him with an iron bar.

Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, conducted the case for the Crown. Det. Inspector A. J. W. Dorling had charge of Police investigations. The accused were not represented.

TO-MORROW'S LAWN BOWLS

Two Interesting Matches In Second Division

CRAIGENGOWER SENIORS AT HOME TO CLUB DE RECREIO

Chief interest in the lawn bowls league programme to-morrow is in the list of second division fixtures. The Indian Recreation Club, present leaders, and Kowloon Bowling Green Club, strong challengers, both have stiff matches.

The I.R.C. are at home to Civil Service who will probably make the Sookunpo team go all the way for the points, while the Bowling Green entertain the Police, whose hopes of making the leadership are still useful.

Among the seniors, the Bowling Green are away to the Police. The latter are always dangerous on their own green, but the Austin road team should manage to collect the points. Craigengower "A", their nearest rivals entertain the Kowloon, who earlier in the season beat them at Kowloon. This should provide a fine match, with the "Craig" enjoying a slight edge.

The complete programme, and some of the teams follow.

ASIATIC RUGBY Association Formed In Perak

Ipoh, July 28.

At a meeting held at the Town Hall today it was decided to form the Perak Asiatic Rugby Football Association, with a view to encouraging Asiatics in Perak to take up the handling code.

There was a large crowd present at the meeting and a temporary committee was elected as follows: Mr. Rajaretnam (chairman), Mr. Ong Khok Cheow (secretary) and Messrs. Haji Abdul Wahab, Moh. Shariff, Bachan Singh, Lee Man Yui, Yeo Teng Khoo, W. Jesudasan and Moh Yacob.

LOYAL TO HITLER

VON PAPAN'S STATEMENT ON NEW POST

Berlin, Aug. 9.

On the eve of his departure for Vienna, to assume the appointment of German Minister to Austria, the former Vice-Chancellor, Capt. von Papan expressed his unswerving loyalty to Hitler.

"I have accepted this mission in order to fulfil it in accordance with its meaning and spirit; because I know how much depends on its realisation for relieving the tension in Europe, and because I can thereby serve my country," he declared in an exclusive statement to Reuter.

Capt. von Papan said the task in Vienna had been assigned to him by his leader, the Chancellor, and was clearly defined. In

MEMORIAL TO BROWN JACK

RECOGNITION OF GREAT HORSE

SEVERAL IDEAS

London. Among racing folk there is a strong feeling that some sort of recognition should be made of the fine feat of Brown Jack in winning the Queen Alexandra Stakes six years in succession.

One suggestion is that the Ascot Executive should place a tablet on the side of the unsaddling box for the winner giving details of his record and past history.

Another suggestion, made by a writer in a letter to The Times, is that a race should be named after him.

The writer, who adopts the identity of the famous horse Eclipse, states, "So my old friend (Brown Jack) has done it again; what a pair we are, but I shall not feel comfortable until the Ascot authorities do the right thing. I have my own stakes at Sandown and the old boy should have his at Ascot."

This is true enough. There are the Eclipse Stakes at Sandown Park, the Trepassey Hurdle at Lingfield, the Beeswing Plate at Newcastle and the Flying Dutchman Handicap at York, all important races named after famous racehorses.

A representative of the Ascot authority, when asked if there was any likelihood of a similar honour being conferred on Brown Jack, said: "Up to the present the matter has not been considered officially. As there will not be another fixture on the Royal Heath until next June it is unlikely that anything will be done in a hurry."

It is hoped, however, that the memory of this game old horse, who is easily the most popular in training since the days of Pretty Polly and Victor Wild, will be preserved in some way or other, either by a tablet, horse race or some such means.

OTHER SUCCESSES.

In addition to his successes in the Queen Alexandra Stakes, Brown Jack has also won the Goodwood Cup and Ascot Gold Cup, the Ascot Stakes, the Ebor Handicap and the Chester Cup.

It is hoped that he will run at Goodwood in August if the going is suitable.

Eclipse, who has his own race at Sandown, was the most remarkable horse in the history of the Turf. He was foaled in 1764 and was never beaten in a race. He retired from racing before the Derby was instituted in 1780. He sired many winners and died in 1789.

The unbeaten and unextended St. Simon was one of his descendants, and long after the death of the famous racehorse, "Eclipse" first, the rest nowhere, remained a popular catch-phrase and was used by Macaulay in one of his essays.

The Glyceracks Stakes at York is named after a horse of that name which towards the end of the 18th century won 25 out of 27 races. Its memory is celebrated once a year by a banquet at York attended by the notabilities of the Turf.

The Beeswing Plate at Newcastle is named after Beeswing, who won six Newcastle cups in successive years, and Flying Dutchman Handicap at York is named after Lord Eglington's famous horse, who won the Derby and the St. Leger in 1869.

Hitler's letter to him, dated July 28.

Capt. von Papan quoted from the late President von Hindenburg's last letter to him, saying he was sending von Papan as the diplomatic representative of the Reich to Vienna, "in the sincere hope that you will be successful in re-establishing normal, cordial relations with the Austrian people who are related to us by descent. My best wishes accompany you in carrying out this responsible task."

Capt. von Papan added the letter was a command, but at the same time a testament to which nothing need be added.

Capt. von Papan concluded his statement with the words "Heil Hitler."—Reuter.

FANLING HUNT.

There will be a meeting for those interested in HUNTING during the coming season, in the Board Room of Messrs. Jardine Matheson & Co., Ltd., on TUES. DAY, 28th AUGUST, 1934, at 5.30 p.m.

A scene from "The Invisible Man", the H. G. Wells' thriller, which is showing at the Kings Theatre on Sunday. Featured players are Claude Rains, Gloria Stuart and Una O'Connor, the latter of "Cavalcade" fame.

Lancashire's Magnificent Recovery Of Form

country (but that apparently does not matter).

At this dangerous period of Lancashire's career at Blackpool, when they were to all intents and purposes beaten, Duckworth and Parkinson scored 36 runs in twenty minutes. What a gesture, what a sight to see! Another brave innings by Phillipson, and Worcestershire on the last day were left with 122 runs to make to win. Their task, normally not a very difficult one, was made less easy by the fact that the pitch had been affected by rain, and by the manner in which first Sibbles and then Hopwood leapt to their chance.

A quiver here at the beginning, and later in the middle of the innings, but Worcestershire was a corpse, beaten in the end by 32 runs after as good a match as could be imagined. Hopwood's bowling figures in the two innings are well worth recording: 62.2 overs, 27 maidens, 112 runs, 15 wickets.

TATE'S TWO DECLARATIONS.

Sussex, in the meantime, captained by Tate, gained a remarkable victory over Northamptonshire at Hove. On the first day

Sussex scored 287 for seven wickets. Tate declaring the innings closed next morning at the overnight total. No play was possible on the second day until four o'clock, and before the close of play Northamptonshire had scored 114 for five wickets. On the morning of the last day Northamptonshire saved the follow on, but Sussex, already 105 runs on, scored 115 runs quickly for five wickets before Tate declared the innings closed for a second time. And he put the cap on a really fine performance by himself, taking six Northamptonshire wickets in the second innings for seven runs in 10.4 overs. Indeed, he may give himself a pat on the back.

Gloucestershire is another side for whom things are going well, Hammond supplementing single figure innings in Test matches with double centuries in county matches. This last week they followed up a victory over Glamorgan at Llanelli by seven wickets against Nottinghamshire at Bristol by an innings and 32 runs. They have now won four matches in succession, and it is a remarkable fact that on each of the last three occasions they have lost the toss.

Yorkshire, although they beat Essex at Hull easily enough, are finding the call which Test matches make upon their full team rather a strain. It is all very well to have to play a substitute number one, or to be without one of your bowlers, but when three of your five key men are taken away, and you wonder how many more are to go next time, the matter gets a little beyond a joke.

matches make upon their full team rather a strain. It is all very well to have to play a substitute number one, or to be without one of your bowlers, but when three of your five key men are taken away, and you wonder how many more are to go next time, the matter gets a little beyond a joke.

VOTE FOR $16,232

At yesterday's meeting of the Legislative Council, the Colonial Treasurer, Hon. Mr. Edwin Taylor, moving the sanction of a vote for the further expenditure of $16,232 on the Vehicular Ferry, stated that the total amount expended to the end of 1933 was $1,741,650.70. His Excellency, the Governor, Sir William Peel, Bt., K.C.M.G., K.C.B., presided and others present were: His Excellency, the General Commanding the Troops, Major General O. C. Barrett, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O. The Colonial Secretary (Hon. Mr. Thomas Southorn, K.C.M.G., C.B.E.), The Attorney General (Hon. Mr. R. E. Lindsell), The Secretary for Chinese Affairs (Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith), The Colonial Treasurer (Hon. Mr. E. Taylor), The Inspector General of Police (Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G.), The Harbour Master (Hon. Commander G. F. Hole, R.N., retired), The Director of Medical and Sanitary Services (Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, C.M.G.), The Director of Public Works (Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson), Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie, Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., L.D., Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, Hon. Mr. S. W. T's'o, O.B.E., L.D., Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes, Mr. R. A. C. North (Clerk of Council).

The Hon. Colonial Secretary moved that the report of the Finance Committee dated July 26th, 1934, be adopted.

The Hon. Colonial Treasurer seconded and the motion was passed.

Vehicular Ferry Vote.

The Colonial Treasurer, in moving the vote said: "Four Exchanges, the total amount expended on the Vehicular Ferry to the end of 1933 was $1,741,650.70. Of this sum $325,231.14 was spent during 1933. Hon. Members will recollect that resolutions for $170,000 and $139,000, totalling $309,000, were taken on October 6, 1932, and December 14, 1933, respectively, for the estimated expenditure during 1933. As $325,231.14 was spent during the year, it is necessary to take a resolution for the balance, viz., $16,232.00."

I would add that the total approved estimate for the year at present is $1,804,000, but it is possible that further funds may be required before finally is reached.

I therefore move "that this Council approves the further expenditure of $16,232 on the Vehicular Ferry during the financial year 1934, which sum shall be met from Loan funds and shall meanwhile be charged as an advance from the Surplus Balances of the Colony."

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the motion was adopted.

Coroner's Abolition.

Moving the first reading of a Bill to amend the Coroner's Abolition Ordinance, 1888, the Attorney General said: "The scope and purpose of this bill are sufficiently shown in the Objects and Reasons. The only material alterations of the existing law are as follows:

(3) By Clause 2 the Governor in Council is empowered to make rules in connection with inquests and post-mortems.

(b) In respect of deaths of prisoners under sentence, the old provisions requiring an inquest to be held in every case within twenty-four hours (or forty-eight hours if a "dies non" intervenes), has been relaxed, and is now to apply only to the case of executed prisoners.

(Clause 6) Clause 8 abolishes the discretion of a magistrate acting as coroner to commit direct for trial a person against whom at an inquest evidence of the commission of a crime has been disclosed, and requires the institution of ordinary proceedings before a magistrate as the initial step in every such case.

(d) Clauses 9 and 10 give to the Attorney General similar powers, in particular the power of requiring a magistrate to hold an inquest on those coroners on the High Court by section 6 of the Coroners' Act, 1887.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and the Bill was read a first time.

The Attorney General, moving the first reading of a Bill intituled "An Ordinance to amend the Jury Ordinance, 1887," said: "This amending Ordinance introduces no radical changes in the law but regularises procedure in respect of passing over (when necessary) persons drawn for a Coroner's Jury panel, in respect of the method of summoning jurors, and in respect of the recording of jurists' verdicts which has long been followed in fact."

The Colonial Secretary seconded the motion, and the Bill was read a first time.

Safety At Sea.

Explaining the objects for certain amendments to the law relating to Merchant Shipping contained in another Bill, which passed its first reading, the Attorney General said: "The amendments to be effected by this Ordinance are necessitated by the intended extension to the Colony of the Merchant Shipping (Safety and Load Line Conventions) Act, of 1932."

Part II of that Act, which deals with Load Line and Loading, will be proclaimed by Order in Council of His Majesty as applying to the Colony with necessary modifications, when this Ordinance has been passed.

A further amending Ordinance will be submitted to the Council in due course and after that is passed, it is expected that Part I of the Act, which deals generally with Safety at Sea, will also be extended to the Colony by Order in Council.

The details of the legislation concerned appear in the Objects and Reasons.

Betting Duty Amendments.

Another Bill which passed its first reading was an Ordinance to amend the Betting Duty Ordinance, 1931. The Attorney General, in explanation stated: "Since September of last year, the duty payable on pari-mutuel tickets has been at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent of the face value of each ticket, and for the year ending March 31, last the Jockey Club paid over $100,000 duty in this respect."

It is considered fairer that the duty should be charged on a sliding scale which can be varied from time to time by resolution of this Council.

A copy of the resolution intended to be submitted to this Council if the Bill is passed is in the hands of each member.

got all jazzed up about me when I first came in. He keeps looking at her too. Edgar's always been in love with her—I hope that little pink jelly-bean he married knows it! And as for Howard, he doesn't see that anyone else exists! If I could only stop wanting him; I could have loved him a hundred times as much as she does. Anyway, it's my child in this house. He calls himself its father. That's something, even if Amy calls herself its mother. It's my child. I'm glad I let her take it. Oh, she's so damned smug. What's her secret?"

Amy sitting down the table did not know that Jane resented and hated her anew. She did not hate Jane. She did not think of her, nor of the others, very clearly. "This is the end," something within was reminding her, "this is the end. To-morrow everything will be changed. To-morrow we must start a new strange life in a new strange world. To-morrow! To-morrow!" The feeling that the family was sold, the family would protect and shelter her, had gone. The war was a black shadow which fell across the family and blotted out the one she loved the most.

EUROPEAN RELAYS HEADED LIST FOR JULY

Actual hours of transmission from ZBW during July totalled 342.25, of which 151.25 were devoted to European Programmes and 91 to Chinese programmes, as follows: The European percentage was 62.44.

During the month the following items were broadcast:

On each Monday and Thursday evening, in addition to the Chinese programmes broadcast from ZBW, European records programmes were broadcast from ZEK on a frequency of 640 kilocycles, from 8.30-10 p.m. The total number of hours were 13 1/2.

It is considered fairer that the duty should be charged on a sliding scale which can be varied from time to time by resolution of this Council.

A copy of the resolution intended to be submitted to this Council if the Bill is passed is in the hands of each member.

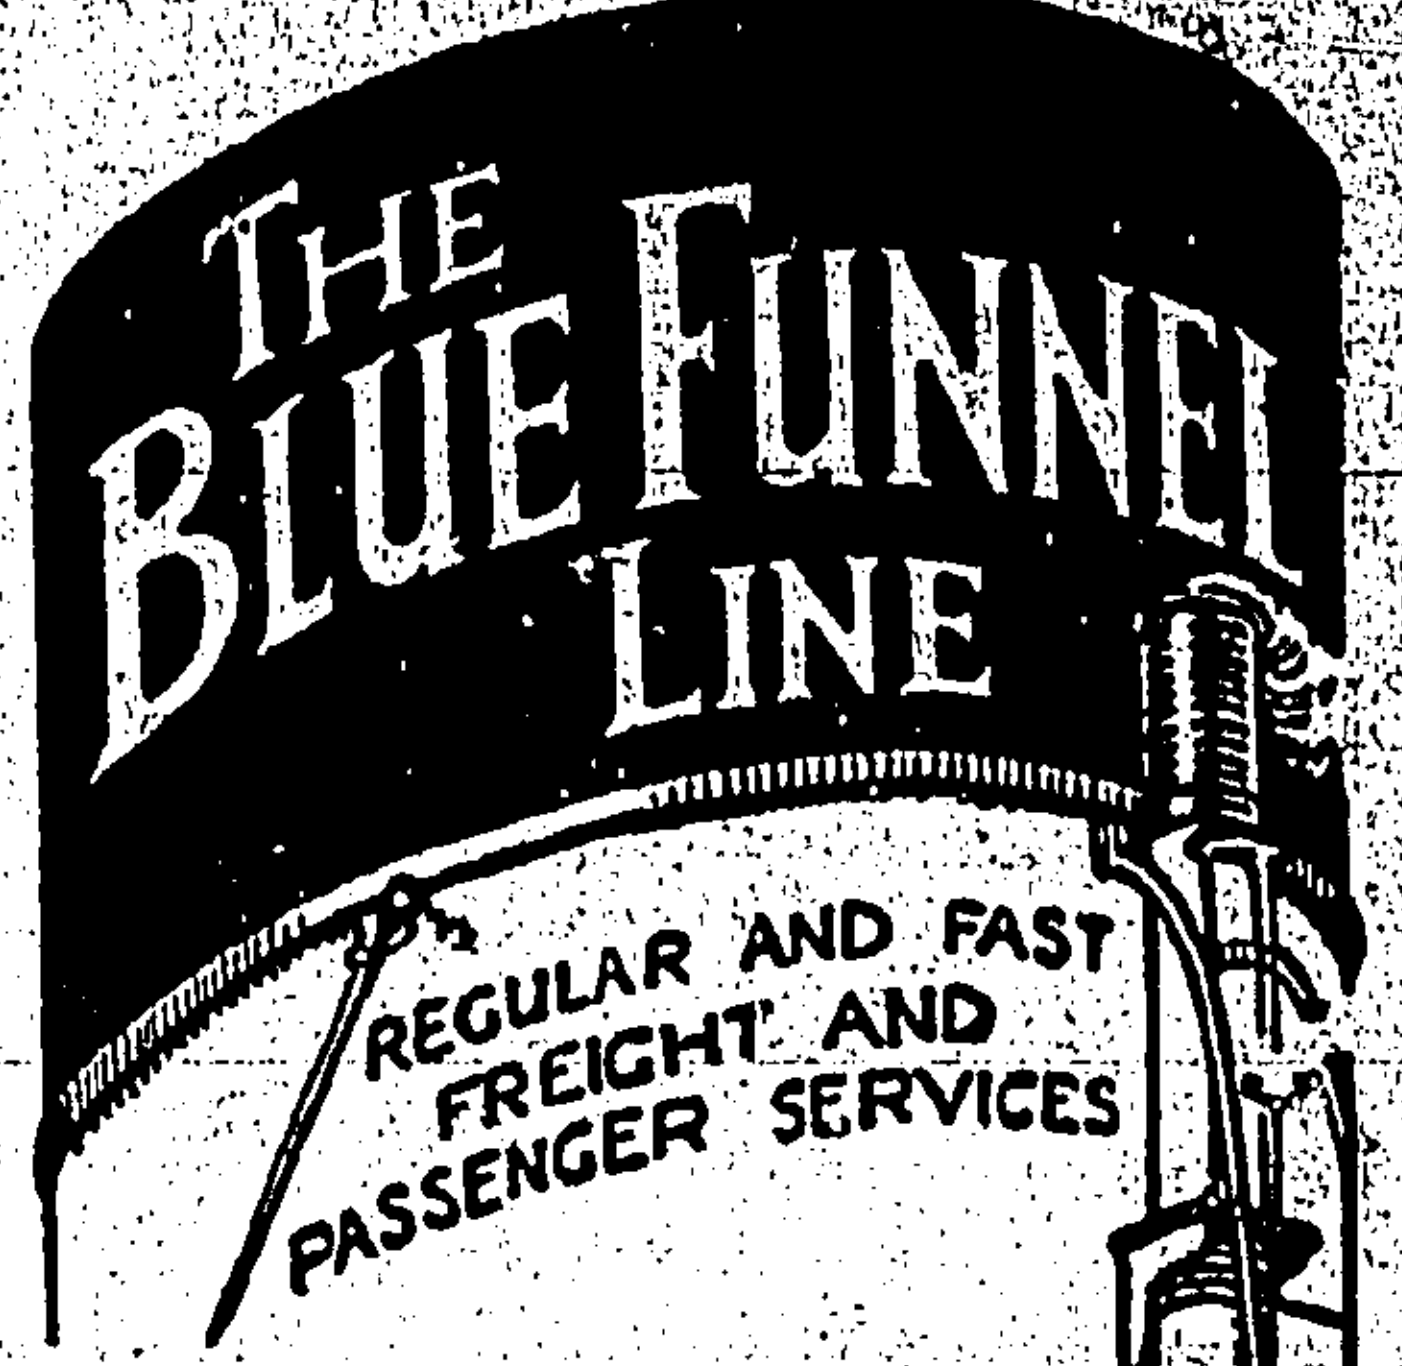

Supreme Court Ordinance.

The Attorney General also moved the first reading of a Bill intituled "An Ordinance to amend further the Supreme Court Ordinance, 1875." He said: "The Supreme Court Ordinance, 1875, has been found defective in yet another direction in that it provided no machinery for instituting revenue claims by the Government against persons who are not in the Colony."

The amended proviso, to be enacted by Clause 2 of the Bill, cures this defect, and the new sub-section (2), to be added by clause 5 to section 13 of the principal Ordinance, vests in the Registrar of the Supreme Court the powers and duties on the revenue side of the King's Remembrancer in England.

The other amendments are amendments of the wording of sections 9 and 11 of the principal Ordinance, as enacted by the amending Ordinance of 1932, and are based on a request for such amendments by the Secretary of State.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and the Bill was read a first time. A Bill to amend the Official Signatures Fees Ordinance, 1896, also passed its first reading, and a Bill intituled "An Ordinance to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Registration of Births and Deaths" passed through its final stages.

BAD U.S. POLICY

SIR PERCY PERRY'S BLUNT ADVICE

London, Aug. 9.

America came in for sharp criticism to-day from Sir Percy Perry, chairman of the Ford Motor Company of Britain, when speaking at the British and North American Luncheon Club. The luncheon was attended by the American commercial attaché, Mr. Lynn Meekins, and the former American commercial attaché, Mr. William Leo Cooper.

Sir Percy condemned America's failure to recognise her change since 1914 from a debtor nation to a creditor nation.

"While we were fighting the World War the United States sent us food and munitions and also stepped into our foreign markets, controlling virtually the whole export market of the world, which fell like a ripe plum into the laps of American industrialists," he declared.

He said that America should put her house in order and increase her own domestic demand, which was largely curtailed by her immigration quotas.

Tariff Barrier.

Continuing, Sir Percy declared that the United States does not quite realise the aggregate of her transactions. There is no possibility of America being paid for her exports in goods unless her tariff barriers are broken down. How will it take her paternal Government to put a check to the ultimate drift towards bankruptcy of exporters by curtailing or prohibiting exports?

"It is certainly essential that American exports such as wheat, tobacco, cotton, and such must continue and it is essential that exports and imports be balanced," he added. "But the United States will keep on insisting on selling goods to keep what is called, very wrongly, a favourable balance of trade."

"The New Deal may be in a position to curtail American exports. The President in his wisdom may say: 'Export wheat, tobacco and cotton, but don't export motor cars,' he asserted.

Labour Saving Fallacy.

He pointed out another great change in America, from a labour

SIX DEATHS IN JERSEY FROM DYSENTERY

Jersey City, N.J., Aug. 9.

Six persons are dead from a serious outbreak of bacillary dysentery, which has suddenly and mysteriously appeared here.

Up to the present, 160 cases have been reported to the health authorities.

Special precautions are being taken to combat the epidemic, and nurses are engaged in a door-to-door campaign of warning.

saving to a labour using nation.

"The whole of American energy has got to be devoted to the problem of using labour instead of saving it," he challenged.

He concluded by apologising for his critical remarks saying that it was necessary that America face the facts, for otherwise the world crisis would be worsened.

—Our Own Correspondent.

Codes Revised.

Washington, Aug. 9.

All employers in towns whose populations do not exceed 2,500, though hitherto subject to various retail service codes, henceforth are not required to observe the codes' provisions. They can fix their own maximum hours of work and minimum wages and prices. But they must continue to observe the provisions governing child labour and fair trade practices.

This order, which was issued by General Johnson to-day, practically ends the administration's attempt to bring small businesses under the rules of the full-fledged industrial codes. It is regarded as another indication that the future activities of the N.R.A. will be reorganised within narrower limits, giving a larger scope to industrial self-government.

The task of bringing all American industry under codes, so far as the big manufacturers are concerned, is almost complete. Two hundred codes were awaiting Johnson's approval when he returned to Washington yesterday.

NEW SEAPLANES

AMERICAN BID FOR AIR SUPREMACY

Washington, Aug. 9.

The United Press learns that Navy experts have developed a seaplane with a flying range of hundreds of miles and capable of tremendous speed.

The plane would be used in wartime to locate and bomb enemy fleets, long before they came within firing range of the coast.

Twenty-three flying boats now in commission will be re-modelled and twenty-three additional seaplanes of the new type are at present under construction. Details are being kept secret.

The seaplanes due to be re-modelled include the squadron which is at present in Hawaii. These machines, it will be recalled, flew non-stop from San Francisco at an average speed of 150 miles an hour. When rebuilt, they will be the fastest and will have the longest cruising range in the world.

LOST VOYAGERS

TINY CRAFT DISABLED NORTH PACIFIC

Washington, Aug. 9.

William Titlow and his wife, accompanied by a nurse, Miss Marion Phillips, who left San Diego last month on a pleasure cruise to Manila in a seven-ton craft, are now reported to be safe after drifting helplessly on the Pacific for some time.

The adventurers' craft was caught in a storm and disabled while in the North Pacific and for many days it was feared she was lost.

She was picked up finally and towed to Peys Island by the Japanese survey ship Koshu, on July 20.

The American Consulate at Tokyo now reports that the yacht and her crew have arrived safely at the Island of Pelew, near Yap.

Geneva, Aug. 9. A woman star artist's political songs at a local music hall started a violent disturbance to-night, in which prominent members of the audience took a hand. It is understood that the artist was engaged on a special Socialist anti-Fascist tour.

After musical numbers were inspired by agitators for the forcible overthrow of the capitalist system. While she was singing an anti-war song, M. Leon Nicole, Socialist President of the Canton and Minister of Justice, told Fascist interrupters to be quiet.

EDITOR ARRESTED.

When they refused, M. Nicole struck their leader and had him ejected from the theatre. Shortly afterwards, M. Nicole espied M. Berlin, Aug. 9.

It is learned that changes in the Hitler Cabinet are to take place shortly, as a result of Herr Hitler's elevated status and the appointment of Captain von Papen to Vienna.

It is not expected, however, that any official announcement will be made until after the "presidential" plebiscite which is to be taken on August 19.

It seems likely that the Vice-Presidency and the Vice-Chancellorship will be united under one man who will fill the role of Deputy Reichsleiter.

THE CANDIDATES.

The candidates mentioned are General Goering, General von Blomberg and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, the newspaper king.

General Goering is considered to be the most likely nominee as the appointment of General von Blomberg would associate the Reichswehr too closely with politics, while the return of Dr. Hugenberg to the Cabinet would be regarded by many Hitlerites as an open triumph for the Right Wing.—Reuter.

RED PHILOSOPHY IN NEW DEAL

G.O.P. Leader's Attack On Roosevelt Policies

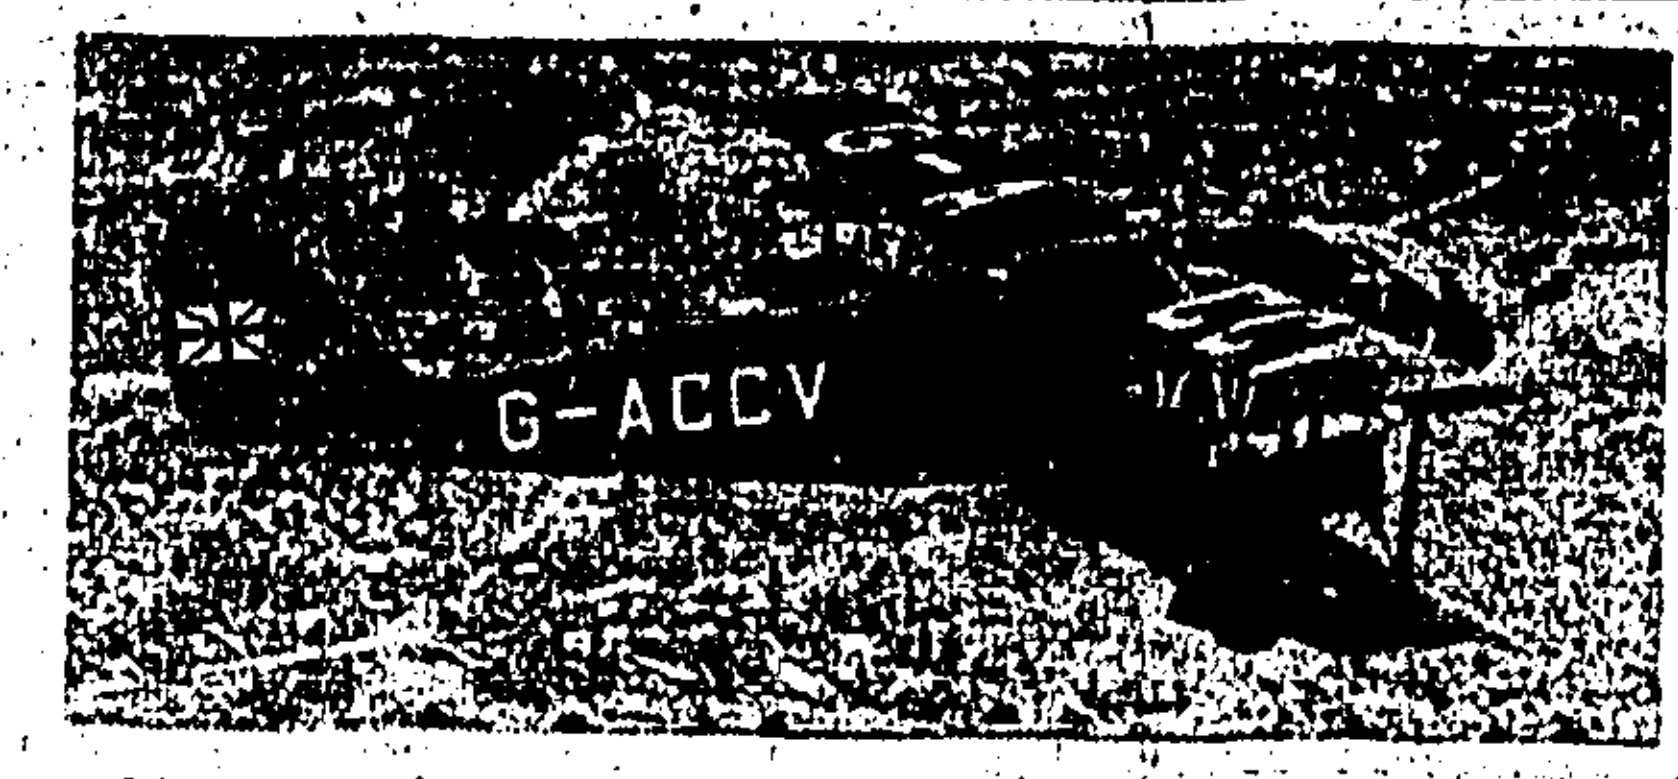

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1921. Received August 10, 1.25 p.m.)

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 9. Mr. Henry P. Fletcher, the new chairman of the Republican National Committee, set the keynote for the Illinois Convention which opened to-day when he slashingly attacked the Roosevelt Administration.

He alleged that the so-called "New Deal" was insidiously undermining the morals and the independence of the people of the United States, and declared that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration had done nothing to help the farmers.

The philosophy of those who were controlling "New Deal" policies, he said, was exactly the same as that of Soviet Russia.—United Press.

ENGINE TROUBLE AFTER RUNNING INTO BAD WEATHER

DESCEND AT HESTON

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1921. Received August 10, 10.55 a.m.)

London, Aug. 9. Captain Leonard Reid and Captain Ayling, who took off on Wednesday from Wasaga Beach, Ontario, to fly to Baghdad, were compelled to land this evening at Heston Aerodrome.

Their attempt to break the long-distance record, therefore, failed, though they covered more than the average distance for a flight from America to England.

They landed at Heston, Middlesex, at six o'clock this evening, later taking off again and alighting at Hatfield at 7.35 p.m.

BAD WEATHER.

Interviewed at Hatfield, Captain Ayling stated that they had experienced very bad weather during the Atlantic crossing and regarded it as very fortunate that they set off with a tail wind.

They were compelled to descend at Heston, although they had plenty of petrol left, on account of trouble with their engines, both of which were behaving badly although neither failed. They considered it unwise to continue to Baghdad.

FRESH AND CHEERFUL.

Both airmen appeared fresh and cheerful although they had been in the air for nearly thirty-six hours. Captain Ayling told the United Press that they flew "mainly on orange juice and water."

The plans for the future are uncertain. The machine they used was a twin-engined biplane, re-named "G-ACCV."

ALTERNATIVE TO INFLATION?

TREASURY EXPECTED TO BUY ABROAD

HIGHER PRICES IN LONDON TO-DAY

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAS TAKEN THE WORLD BY SURPRISE IN PROCLAIMING THE NATIONALISATION OF SILVER IN THE UNITED STATES.

The likely effect on the world price is being closely studied and is the subject of much speculation.

In some local quarters, there is uncertainty whether the price of 50 cents per ounce will apply to foreign as well as domestic silver. In this connection, it is suggested that in the improbable event of America prohibiting foreign imports of silver, prices outside would naturally fall, but such action would seem most unlikely and illogical, seeing that the Administration's aim is to enhance the world value of silver.

General opinion appears to be that a substantial rise in world silver values is to be expected in the near future. The London price yesterday was well below New York parity, due to the fact that the nationalisation announcement came too late to affect the London market. Price should, however, be up in London to-morrow.

There is again talk of the possibility of China placing an embargo on exports, and in view of this, as well as of the confusion which exists regarding the exact meaning of the American policy, there is a reluctance locally to be too dogmatic in making predictions regarding the future trend of silver.

ROOSEVELT POLICY A SECRET

Further Inflation Widely Expected

London, Aug. 10. President Roosevelt's intentions regarding the future of the dollar is still a secret, but his dramatically announced silver nationalisation policy makes for further currency expansion, says the Financial Times.

The most important immediate effect of the silver proclamation, says this journal, is that foreign observers, who are afraid of further inflationary moves, are more than ever convinced of the correctness of their views.

INFLATION OR NOT?

The Daily Mail also says that the change means a certain degree of inflation, though it does not think it will be very extensive or very alarming.

The City Editor of the News Chronicle, however, holds different views. He says that the interpretation of the edict as the signal for a fresh dose of inflation is not shared by operators in London.—Reuter.

Hawkers Worry The I.G.P.

GIVES ORDERS FOR TWO ARRESTS

Mak Ping, a licensed newspaper hawk, was brought before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court yesterday on a charge of uttering street cries in Des Voeux Road Central.

It was stated that the arrest was made on the order of the Inspector General of Police, and instructions to the Inspector-on-duty at Central Charge Room were to charge him with soliciting.

The Inspector stated in Court that he could not find a charge of that nature and charged the defendant with "street-cry." He was selling English newspapers and was apparently pushing them in front of people saying "Telegraph," "Telegraph."

The Magistrate dismissed the case.

UNDER I.G.P.'S WINDOW.

Ho Wo, 28, an unlicensed hawk, who shouted his wares below the office window of the Inspector General of Police yesterday, was arrested by an Indian sergeant on instructions from the I. G. P. Brought before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, he admitted a charge of uttering cries in a prohibited area, Hollywood Road.

The Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe:—This man was shouting his wares under my office. He was selling green fruit; I think they were guavas. I sent the Indian sergeant out to arrest him. I now find that he has not got a licence. Replying to the Magistrate, defendant stated he had never been a hawk before.

The Magistrate decided to impose a fine of $2 or four days' gaol on an amended charge of hawking without a licence.

CANED HIS WIFE

Schoolmaster Who
Thought He Had Right

SEPARATION ORDER

An amazing story of a schoolmaster who made his wife strip and then caned or smacked her was told at Highgate, London, when Ernest Henry Houghton, giving an address at Duke's Avenue, Church End, Finchley, was summoned by his wife for persistent cruelty.

Mr. Rickotts, for the wife, said that before her marriage she was a schoolmistress. The husband was a schoolmaster, and both were B.A.s.

Three or four years ago the husband got it into his head that if his wife displeased him he should correct her.

His method of correction was to cause her to strip and bend over a chair, when he smacked her with his hand or with a cane. Though the conduct was repeated the wife made no complaint to her parents, but when suffering from a nervous breakdown the husband told them, and the mother said that if he did really beat her daughter she would have to take her away.

He replied that she would not leave him.

In view of his nervous state, said Mr. Rickotts, the mother and father thought he was suffering from delusions, and got him to promise that if he had smacked his wife in the past he would cease doing so in the future. The smacking, however, continued.

The wife felt that if she resisted the punishment would have been heavier than it was.

THREATENED TO THRASH HER.

Coming to the time the wife left her husband, Mr. Rickotts said that early in the week he threatened her that if she made three domestic mistakes that week he would thrash her at the week-end. She made a mistake, and remembering his threat to beat her at the week-end she left him and went to her parents.

When she left her husband she was unable to take the five children of the marriage with her, but she had managed since to collect them. Each one of the children bore signs of recent caning.

Mr. Rickotts added that the husband seemed to be a man who thought he had a right to inflict violence on anyone, be it a child or his wife.

The wife, giving evidence, was asked if she resisted her husband's behaviour. She replied that she thought that if she gave in she would appease him. For the little punishment she received she did not wish to wreck their marriage. "He was always nice to me afterwards," she added. "He gave me a cup of tea."

Mrs. Houghton, replying to Mr. Rickotts, said that her husband received a salary of from £400 to £500 a year.

The Bench, granting a separation, ordered Houghton to pay his wife £2 a week and 10s. a week in respect of each of the five children, the wife to have the custody of the children. He was also ordered to pay two guineas costs.

MRS. MAX BAER

WANTS TO REVERT TO MAIDEN NAME.

Dorothy Dunbar Baer, former wife of Max Baer, the world heavyweight boxing champion, wants to become "Miss Wells" again, says Reuter from Los Angeles. She has petitioned to be allowed to revert to her maiden name, saying that the publicity attached to the name Baer is distasteful to her.

Mrs. Baer was granted a "mail order" divorce from Baer to October. The boxer signed a document enabling the decree to be granted by mutual consent on grounds of incompatibility.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

"For day-wear there is something specially smart in the form of a suit of white uncrushable linen, with blouse of white and black spotted muslin."

For Your Note-Book

DOORS of cupboards and built-in fittings in new houses are often found to stick at first. This difficulty can be overcome by rubbing the edges and the frame with a prepared wax polish.

RUB butter or some oil on to burns and scalds immediately they happen. More often than not you can prevent a nasty burn by being prompt with the butter.

If you wring out lace and muslin frocks in milk instead of starch it will stiffen them sufficiently.

SILK stockings which have become stained from one's shoes can be successfully cleaned by rubbing the stains with a cut lemon dipped in salt.

NOTHING SAFE

SOUVENIR HUNTERS STRIP MUSEUM.

"Everything that is not bolted down" has been stolen from the Franklin Institute Museum, according to an announcement made by Mr. L. G. Schieffner, the superintendent.

Mr. Schieffner blames souvenir hunters, vandals, and mischievous school children for these depredations, says Reuter. Some of them, he says, even bring screwdrivers and wrenches to carry out their depredations.

Among the articles stolen were a 400 years old Chinese clock, a tiny piece of printing type inscribed with the Lord's Prayer, the microscope through which the printing was read, wireless valves, sparking plugs, telegraph keys, aeroplane parts, and a five-shilling watch.

One enterprising visitor tied a length of heavy rope around a huge aeroplane engine on the second floor and threw the other end of the rope out of the window with the idea of pulling the engine through.

Mr. Jacob Van den Bergh, of Lyndhurst-road, Hampstead, a pioneer of the margarine industry in this country, who died, aged 85, left £269,147 "so far as at present can be ascertained," with net personalty £209,768, on which £69,396 has been paid on account of estate duty.

SOME COSTLY BLUNDERS

CIVIL SERVICE DEAL LOSS

How a Ministry of Labour "change of mind" cost the country over £23,000 is revealed in the civil and revenue votes expenditure report issued by the Public Accounts Committee.

A site had been purchased in Bristol in 1925 for a new employment exchange, but was abandoned four years later owing to violent local opposition, chiefly on the ground that it was a main thoroughfare.

A proposal to erect an inland Revenue building on the same site also aroused local opposition on the ground that it was right off the beaten track.

The total expenditure of the Office of Works on accrued rents, and other outlays amounted to £29,438 by September 1933, when an offer to buy the site for £5,750 was received and accepted. The net loss on the transaction had therefore exceeded £23,000.

The Committee had ascertained, continues the report, that while it was not yet possible to state the final capital cost of the new Royal Hospital School at Holbrook, the total expenditure was expected to reach nearly £1,100,000, as compared with estimates of from £950,000 to £970,000.

That large outlay had provided the main buildings for 1,000 boys, but living accommodation only for 860, whereas the school at Greenwich had a complement between 900 and 1,000.

The capital cost per boy, therefore, represented about £1,250 while the average annual cost per boy had risen from £70 to £97 per annum, and the Committee "cannot but think that these figures represent a somewhat lavish scale of expenditure."

SEASIDE SUN-BATHING PROTEST

"Distasteful," Says
Westgate

Westgate-on-Sea is shocked by the conduct of bathers and sun-bathers, and a beach inspector has been warned to keep a watchful eye for the insufficiently clad.

Many letters and verbal protests have been made to the Parish Council.

"Objection has been taken to bathers who slip down the top portions of costumes and sprawl about the promenades, greens and sands sun-bathing," said the chairman, Mr. C. E. Whitlock, at the Council meeting.

"On the promenade at St. Mildred's Bay," he continued, "a man was seen completely nude and dressed himself leisurely. Westgate must set an example to other resorts and prevent a repetition of such distasteful conduct."

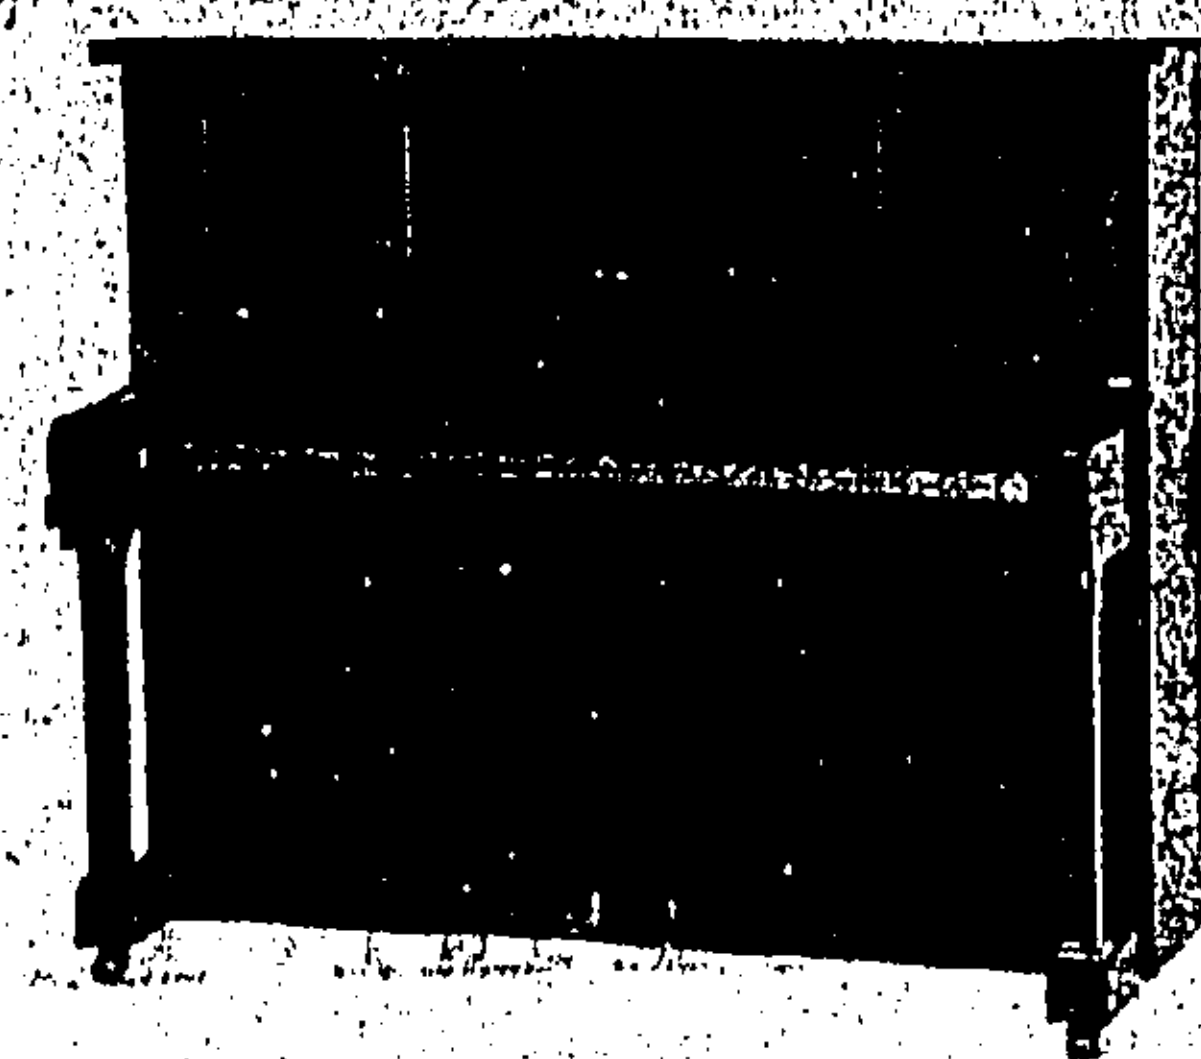

Mr. Longrigg said that one Sunday he saw ten young people of both sexes lying sun-bathing on the sea-front with costumes dropped below the waist.

A resident on the sea-front, he added, complained of visitors who came in cars and, after undressing, lay about the ground in exaggerated stages of undress.

WILL BAN ON DEALING.

An unusual bequest in a will was made by Mr. George Turner, a retired draper, of Highstreet, Walslow (Bucks), who left £8,083. He stated:

"If either my daughter or granddaughter shall at any time use the income they may receive under my will or any part thereof either directly or indirectly in the business of buying, selling, breeding or upkeep of any horses, ponies or greyhounds, they shall immediately lose and forfeit all interest thereunder."

SOPHIE KERR'S LATEST SUCCESS IN ROMANTIC PROBLEM FICTION "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

CHAPTER XXV

The last day of Commencement the dean's wife telephoned, in a flurry. "Amy, Rufus is terribly sick, one of those awful stomach upsets he has when he gets too tired, and I'm in such a fix—we were to have two of the trustees for dinner to-night, you know, Wilbur Barney and Louis Prentice, a couple of old tycoons as ever were! Could you take them? I'll send over the whole dinner, all cooked, and a maid to serve it. And listen, Amy, there's plenty for a dozen, so ask some more people if you feel equal to it. There's gallons of soup and three roast ducks, and I'll send cocktills and some really good old Burgundy Rufus has been saving, and, oh, Amy, do give them a real time. They've both been so generous with the Endowment Fund and we want them now to do something about the scholarships—you see how it is! I do wish you could dig up an entertaining pretty woman or two, but I suppose that's impossible. Marburg might be Sahara so far as extra women are concerned, but of course they'll enjoy you, dear. They haven't got their wives with them, thank heaven!"

It was a nuisance, thought Amy, but she could not refuse. She knew both Mr. Prentice and Mr. Barney. They were, as the dean's wife had said, tycoons, and rather formidable tycoons, too. Greedy, and autocratic. Now who on earth could she rake up as extra guests at this late hour—not her father and mother, for they had a party of their own. Indeed no one in the faculty circle was available, not even an unattached instructor. Edgar Moreland and his pretty young wife. Yes, they might come. She telephoned at once and they accepted. Then she remembered Miss Rosa Terry. "Miss Rosa's a good bit of a tycoon herself. She ought to get along with them," she reflected. She'd been neglecting Miss Rosa lately. This would make up.

Miss Rosa's voice, over the wire, sounded very sprightly. "Why, I'd love it, Amy, only—Jane's here again for a day or so, came to finish up some of my business. But I daresay she won't mind."

"Oh, bring Jane along—no, it will even up the table instead of throwing it out. Half past seven, then." She realized as she put down the phone how completely Jane had faded out of her thoughts, and that she didn't matter any longer. The stress of worrying about Howard had finished Jane with Amy.

A spilled mayonnaise at a reception. Even if she could find time to clean it, it would reek of benzine.

With quick resolution she went to the closet and took down her wedding dress, unwrapped it from its enfolding tissue paper and muslin. It was not in style, but its simplicity, the quality of its ivory satin made it dateless, classic. She stood with it in her hands, thinking of her wedding day, of Howard. He would like to see her again in that dress. "My dear love! You and I have had so much happiness. And nothing, nothing can take that away from us." The sting of tears came up behind her eyes, but she shook it away. She must not, she must not begin to speak of that happiness as if it was already ended.

When Howard came in, late and hurrying, she was already dressed and the shining satin was covered by an engulphing apron, the skirt tucked up, while she finished the last things in dining room and kitchen. That was why he did not see her until he ran downstairs just as the first guests rang the bell. He stopped and exclaimed: "Why, Amy—darling! You look like an angel—that lovely dress—"

"Do you remember it?" "Do I! What do you take me for?" He could not go on, for Mr. Prentice was entering, red and puffy and obviously disgruntled at being switched from the dean to an obscure and young member of the faculty. But he unbent at sight of Amy with the cocktail tray in the background. Perhaps it would not be too bad, after all.

And now Edgar Moreland was coming and Alice, his wife—pink cheeks and curly hair and ruffled pink organdy—and at the sight of another pretty woman Mr. Prentice began definitely to brighten. Barney was next, tall and gray and sceptical, but he also liked pretty women and cocktills and was much less assertive of himself and his money and opinions and prejudices than Prentice, being better bred and surer of himself and having the advantage of height. He glanced about him critically, observed that the room showed the usual professorial good taste and lack of means, but that his hostess was an extraordinary creature. Really he had not expected Lowe's little girl to grow up to such distinction. He took his cocktail and sipped it, watching Amy appreciatively.

And now Jane and Miss Rosa were coming in, Miss Rosa trailing her best black chiffon and glittering with her entire set of old pink topaz, necklace, brooch, bracelets, earrings, and behind her, with the expression of one who lends her self to a small town diversion with kindly patronage, came Jane. Jane at her most sophisticated in a bare-backed golden frock, pecked up with enormous jade clasp or her sister. Jane expected no competition in that costume. She had brought it with her, knowing that this was Commencement Week and hoping against hope for one chance to show it off in Marburg where Howard might see her in it. She had not anticipated the luck to wear it in her own house.

The borrowed maid appeared at the door. "Dinner is served, Mrs. Jackson," she murmured.

Amy led them out, seated them—Howard at the head, Miss Rosa at his right. Yes, and she would put Jane at his left, Mr. Barney at the foot, Alice at his left and Prentice between Alice and Jane, leaving Edgar and herself to fill the other side. Prentice beamed to find himself between these two attractive young women. Miss Rosa always got along well with Howard and Edgar. Jane alone was discontented, that fat little pig beside her was clamouring for her attention. She wanted to talk only to Howard. She wondered if he had asked to have her beside him or if Amy had arranged it. At any rate, there she was and she would make the most of it. "I must finish my story about Mr. Sear's," she said, eagerly. "You remember, the man whose house you wouldn't help me buy?"

At the same time Mr. Barney opened with an easy gambit to Amy: "Aren't those old-fashioned Pink Daily roses in your centre-piece? I haven't seen any for years. They used to grow in my grandmother's garden in Maryland when I was a little chap." "They grow in my garden," said Amy. "They only last a little while, but I love the colour. And wasn't it clever of Alice to wear a dress that matches them exactly?"

It was even cleverer, thought Mr. Barney, that she had passed him over so neatly to the girl in pink. "I must tell Lowe, if I see him again, that his daughter's a wonder. By George, she'd stand out anywhere. Beautiful and gracious. Knows what to do. This dinner's excellent. She's had the sense to keep everything within her limits, no trying for effect or putting on style. I wonder where she got the Burgundy. It tastes like a Baccarat-Conti, be hanged if it doesn't."

Amy did not know that she was getting the credit for the dean's cellar and the dean's cook. But she did know that the dinner was going, as Edgar had predicted, with a bang. The two eminent trustees were mellow to the point of forget-

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

The secret which Universal studios jealously guarded within the impenetrable walls of a forbidden sound stage for months will be revealed on the screen of the King's Theatre next Sunday, when H. G. Wells' startling "The Invisible Man" opens its long-awaited engagement there. Filmed in the utmost secrecy with "No Visitors," signs attached to lock doors, "The Invisible Man" during its production created more intriguing conjectures than any photoplay made in Hollywood for years. Until the film's recent release, only a select group of 20 people actually knew the amazing manner in which this spectacular motion picture was made, and they were under oath not to tell. Universal continues to guard the secret of the manner in which the film was actually made, but its powerful effect became the property of the theatre-going world the minute its sensational first showing was held. As it continues to thrill in weird fashion audiences all over the world, guesses accumulate regarding the manner of the filming and the nature of the actor whose presence supplies the unmatched "kick" of the drama. Claude Rains, and "The Invisible Man," has made him a star virtually overnight, in an almost unbelievable part. He is a veteran of the London and New York stages, making his spectacular entry into motion pictures with this bizarre part. William Harrigan, Gloria Stuart, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor, Henry Travers, and Forrester Harvey comprise the featured cast members. James Whale, who made "Frankenstein," directed this film which has become even more of a sensation.

Stuart is this unusual girl, and she declares that she sincerely hopes that Universal will not make her a star. "I do not believe that I am ready for stardom yet," she states with rare modesty, "and I am trying to convince Carl Lennell, Jr., that I would much prefer another year of parts important only as they are important to the picture, and not because everything else is sacrificed to make them 'star parts'." Miss Stuart is now to be seen at the King's Theatre in "Beloved," the Universal "musical romance of the century" in which she is featured with John Boles. This unusual picture was directed by Victor Schertzinger, who also wrote its music, and the cast supporting Boles and Miss Stuart includes Morgan Fairley, Dorothy Peterson, Albert Conli, Lucille Glendon, Edmund Bruce, Mac Busch, Anderson Lawlor, Ruth Hall, and many other popular players.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

EFFECT OF SILVER MOVE

The following reports on the New York stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Curb stocks, grains and commodities soared up due to the inflationary interpretation of the nationalization of silver, which caught Wall Street by surprise after the President's bearish speech. Traders found it necessary for some time to decide how to interpret the announcement, many regarding the move as a sop to silver interests rather than as an inflationary move. A rush of buying developed in the final hour of trading, the tickers lagging behind three minutes, with prices gaining as much as five points led by Silver and other stocks which inflation will benefit. Union Pacific has declared a dividend of $1.50 per share on Common stock. Bonds were lower due to the inflationary sentiment. The dollar broke sharply due to selling by European operators on an inflation interpretation. The continued heat in the Mid-West helped grain prices to reach new high levels. Traders centred their attention on Bonds which were tremendously active and reminiscent of War days. An amount of $21,760,000 was traded in the course of the day, of which $14,600,000 was traded in the final hour of business. Prices fluctuated widely as Wall Street attempted to interpret the nationalization order. When this became interpreted as an inflationary move, bonds went downward but they rallied in the final half-hour of business some believing this was due to Government support. United States Government bonds closed irregular, after losing as much as half a point. S. C. & F. New York office cable: The market advanced vigorously on further inflation talk induced by the nationalization of silver. Electric output was up fractionally for the week ending August 4th. General Motors' July sales to consumers were 101,240 against 87,200 for the corresponding month of last year. Gold Dust has earned 48 cents per share for the half year. The Chicago Great Western Railroad announces that on September 1st the mortgage bond interest is likely to be deferred for six months. The Standard Oil Co. of Nebraska has omitted to pay a dividend. Business done: 1,420,000. New York & Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: Grain: For the same reason and cause there was a quick advance which, however, was checked by profit-taking. There is no change in the news. The Liverpool market is fully responsive. The Canadian crop is fading fast. In the Middle West it is hot and dry. In the North-West the temperature is moderate, but there is no rain. In the South-West it is hot with heavy showers in parts. In Canada the weather is fair with occasional rains. Cotton: Early on there was some profit-taking by the decline was checked by the silver announcement which is construed as a possible inflationary step, which is open to doubt. Reports of continued deterioration to crops was a contributing factor in the advance. Textile sales improved at 1/2 cent advance, the Mills fixing the price. The market is now approaching the fifteen cent parity price. Rubber: There was trade buying. All primary offerings were accepted. Sugar: Barely steady, in spite of the strength of other markets. Evangeline Booth.

WOMAN TO HEAD SALVATION ARMY?

HIGH COUNCIL TO MEET SHORTLY

EVA BOOTH AS CANDIDATE

London, Aug. 9. Evangeline Booth, nearly seventy years of age, may become head of one of the greatest religious organisations in the world—the Salvation Army.

Evangeline is the sister of General Bramwell Booth and her appointment is being strongly pressed by the American section of the Army.

Forty-seven delegates from twenty-two countries will attend the High Council which will be held in London on August 28th to elect the successor to General Higgins, who will retire from the leadership on November 1st.

The election will be by ballot and a two-thirds majority is required before a new General can be appointed.

NO PROHIBITION.

Nothing in the laws governing the Salvation Army precludes a woman from becoming the General.

The sister and the daughter of late General Bramwell Booth both hold high rank in the list of officers and are members of the High Council.

The High Council consists of 14 representatives from Great Britain, the home country of the Army; six from the United States, five from India, two from Australia and one each from nineteen other lands.

THREE BOOTH DELEGATES.

The American representatives will be Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Army in the United States; Lieut. Commander Slater, in charge of the Southern States; Commissioner Maxwell, in charge of the eastern states; Commissioner McIntyre, in charge of the western states, and Lieut. Commissioner Parker.

The Booth family will have three delegates. In addition to Evangeline, who is a daughter of the founder William Booth, there will be two daughters of Bramwell Booth and, therefore, granddaughters of the founder—Catherine Bramwell-Booth, who is head of Women's Social Work in Great Britain, and Mary Booth, who is in charge of the work in Denmark.

As the United States is one of the leading fields of Salvation Army activity and as Evangeline Booth is a daughter of the founder, there is a strong sentiment in favour of her, especially as she is 69. It is now or never for her, as the Army has a rule that nobody is eligible after attaining the age of 73.

STARTED IN LONDON.

Born in England, Evangeline Booth has spent 30 years of her life in America and is now an American citizen. She started as a captain in the Army in Maryland, when Army losses were often subjected to rough treatment by louts who resented the Army's work. Evangeline Booth showed her daring by going all over England to work among ruffians in perilous neighbourhoods.

Her candidacy will not have smooth sailing. There will be echoes of a bitter fight of five years ago. There was a revolt against the leadership of her brother, Bramwell Booth, who was charged with nepotism and a desire to name his successor. Evangeline Booth was one of the leaders in the revolt against her brother. It ended in February, 1929, when the High Council finally declared Bramwell Booth to be unfit for service on account of the state of his health. It removed him from his post and elected

ACCUSED COMMITTED.

FATHER AND SON ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Charged with the manslaughter of Chan Man, a gardener of Heung Tse Village, New Territories, on July 5, Mak Tik-wan, and his son, Mak Kam-hing, were committed for trial at the next Criminal Sessions by Mr. D. M. MacDougall, at the District Office South yesterday afternoon.

Cautioned before evidence on his own behalf, and stated he did not think the allegations about his son going off with the dead man's wife, were true. "My object of going to the village was to get work as a vegetable gardener," he said. "I will make a statement at the Supreme Court," said the second accused.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lockhart-Smith, the first accused, stated that when living at No. 83 Kwan Yee Street, Tsimshatsui, he called on him and asked him to take a position as a gardener with Mo Kau, at Heung Tse Village.

Accused denied his son had said anything regarding a row with deceased over his wife. All his son had said was that Chan Man's wife had absconded and that he was suspected. He also denied that his object in going to the village was to make a row.

Accused stated that on July 5 he went to Mo Kau's house and had a meal.

Reverting to the scene in the match, accused denied the statement that his son had taken part in the fight. He said that Chan San, a 17-year-old son of deceased, had attacked him with an iron bar.

Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, conducted the case for the Crown. Detention Inspector A. J. W. Dorrill had charge of Police investigations. The accused were not represented.

EUROPEAN RELAYS HEADED LIST FOR JULY

During the month the following items were broadcast:

European Studio Concerts	30.
Chinese Studio Concerts	45.
European Relays	45.
Chinese Relays	11.

New Licences issued during July	167.

LOST VOYAGERS

TINY CRAFT DISABLED NORTH PACIFIC

Washington, Aug. 9. William Tittle and his wife, accompanied by a nurse, Miss Marion Phillips, who left San Diego last month on a pleasure cruise to Manila in a seven-ton craft, are now reported to be safe after drifting helplessly on the Pacific for some time.

The adventurers' craft was caught in a storm and disabled while in the North Pacific and for many days it was feared she was lost.

She was picked up finally and towed to Peys Island by the Japanese survey ship Koshu, on July 20.

The American Consulate at Tokyo now reports that the yacht and her crew have arrived safely at the island of Pelew, near Yap.—United Press.

FIGHTING QUOTAS.

CEYLON STATE COUNCIL STRONGLY OBJECTS

Colombo, Aug. 9. After a two-day debate the State Council passed a resolution protesting against the enforcement by order-in-council of a quota system for Japanese goods coming into Ceylon.

The Council requested the Board of Ministers to take immediate steps to nullify the injurious effects on the people of such an arbitrary imposition.—Reuter.

General Higgins, who for ten years had been Chief of Staff, Bramwell Booth died a few months later.

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

Of the probable candidates against Evangeline Booth, Henry Mapp is highly favoured. Born in Bombay, he is the present Chief of Staff. A third candidate is Commissioner David Lamb, born in Scotland; he gave up his business as chemist to enter the Army, and now is in the head of the Intelligence Office. The fourth named canvasser is that of Samuel Hurzen, who is in charge of the William Booth Memorial Training College in London, which turns out about 400 Army officers each year.

LORRY COLLIDES WITH BUS

DRIVER CHARGED ON THREE COUNTS

A collision between a lorry and a motor bus had a sequel at this morning when the driver of the motor lorry No. 4041 was summoned before Mr. J. H. B. Lee for (1) failing to report a change of address, (2) failing to drive with due care and caution and (3) failing to obey a traffic signal.

Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Messrs. Russ and Co., appeared for the defence.

Traffic Inspector Saunders told the Court that the case arose out of an accident at the junction of Prince Edward Road and Nathan Road at 12.15 p.m. on July 21. Defendant was alleged to have disobeyed a traffic signal and to have collided with Kowloon Motor Bus No. 605. The driver of the bus was also summoned.

Mr. Lim said he had no instructions with regard to the first charge, but with regard to the second and third, he would plead not guilty.

Defendant himself pleaded guilty to the first charge and was fined $3.

SIGNAL DISOBEYED.

A Shantung constable said he was on point duty at the junction of Prince Edward Road and Nathan Road at 12.15 p.m. on July 21. He saw motor bus No. 605 along Nathan Road going in the direction of Tsimshatsui, and gave it a clear signal. The bus was then about 30 yards off.

Immediately afterwards, witness saw lorry No. 4041 going along Prince Edward Road towards Kowloon City. It was coming along fairly fast and witness gave it a red signal. Instead of obeying this signal, witness alleged, the driver of the lorry carried on and collided with the bus, which could not stop in time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lim, witness said that as soon as he had given the clear signal to the motor bus, the red light was automatically against the lorry from Prince Edward Road. He stated that the last time he had changed the signal was five minutes before the accident. On further cross-examination, witness admitted that he had just prior to the accident changed the signal for a No. 1 bus to pass along.

CONTRADICTIONS.

Mr. Lim pointed out to his Worship that the constable had contradicted himself on several points in his evidence.

Constable: Do you mean I have been telling lies?

Mr. Lim: I haven't come to that, yet.

The hearing was adjourned until Wednesday at 2.30 p.m.

BUS COMPANY FINED.

Arising out of the previous case, S. T. Louey, manager of the Kowloon Motor Bus Co., was fined $25 for allowing bus No. 603 on the road without two efficient and independent brakes. Traffic Sergeant Scrim said he had examined the bus after the accident and found the foot brakes to be absolutely useless, and the hand brakes fair.

Tsui Kan, the driver of bus No. 663, was fined $5 for failing to report inefficient brakes to the Bus Company.

Defendant said when he took the bus out in the morning, the brakes were in good order, but as it was raining the whole morning, the foot brakes became affected by the rain.

Inspector Saunders said it was more the fault of the Company than the defendant.

EUROPEANS SUMMONED.

G. W. Arnold, of Torres Building, was fined $10 for disobeying a traffic signal at 4 p.m. on July 25.

Inspector Saunders said that as defendant was driving on Prince Edward Road, the signal was against him but he carried on. There was no danger in his action, but he had certainly disobeyed the signal.

F. W. Kendall, driver of car No. 2639, was fined $10 for leaving his car unattended outside the Star

LONDON FASHION IN SHOES

HARD ON PYTHONS OF NIGERIA

London, Aug. 6. There may not be an awful lot of snake-charmers outside of circuses in the Old World these days, but British women are falling hard for the snakes as an aid to their charms just now, according to Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, the British Colonial Secretary.

As a result of imperial preference duties large quantities of python skins are coming to England from Nigeria to be made into shoes for the women of Britain, he stated.

The trade in pythons is making things so hot for the large snakes of Nigeria that the Emir of one district in the protectorate informed the Colonial Secretary that he was going to institute a close time for pythons during their breeding season. During that time it would be illegal to kill them.—United Press.

Theatre between 10 p.m. and 11 on July 26.

Steps which the traffic police have taken to round up drivers of motor vehicles without licences, resulted in several being summoned before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Hon Kwok-leung, driver of private car No. 1439, was fined $10 for failing to renew his licence.

Chan Kwai-ming, driver of private car No. 2219, was fined $10 for failing to renew his licence, and $10 for driving a car which was not licensed.

Lai Heung, driver of lorry No. 966, Teang On, driver of private car No. 2761, and Lau Cheung, driver of public car No. 770, were each fined $10 for failing to renew their licences.

DRIVING OFFENCES.

Peter Cheung, driver of private car No. 265, was cautioned on a summons of having failed to drive with due care and caution. It was alleged that defendant had driven from Des Voeux Road into Western Street, and had taken the corner on the right-hand side of the road.

Wong Fat, driver of lorry No. 2509, was fined $5 for having driven at 25 miles an hour in Whitfield from the A. P. C. to the Hongkong Electric Company.

Leung Kan-ki, driver of lorry No. 1669, was fined for dangerous driving. Sergeant McInnis stated that defendant took the corner of Arsenal Street and Johnstone Road on the wrong side. He was coming in the opposite direction, and there was a near accident.

NAVAL OFFICER SUMMONED.

Lt. R. R. Wood, H. M. S. Veteran, was summoned for driving on a closed road, and dangerous driving on July 26.

Traffic Inspector Nicol told the Court that defendant drove in Leo Street at 3.30 p.m. about 25 miles an hour.

Mr. Hamilton: Did he not even say one broker?

Defendant was absent, being away at Fochow, and the summons was adjourned sine die.

LORRY DRIVER FINED.

Wong Wah, driver of lorry No. 770, was fined $25 for having failed to make way to a fire appliance, and warned by Mr. Hamilton that he would have his licence cancelled the next time. Defendant pleaded that he was following a tramcar. He was not aware there was a fire appliance behind him, otherwise he would have got to a side of the road.

Mr. R. H. J. Brooks, assistant station officer of the Central Fire Station, said that at noon on July 20 he left the fire station in an appliance and turned left. They came up with defendant near Pottinger Street, but could not pass as defendant was driving in the centre of the road on the tram lines. They tried to pass on the off side but could not owing to on-coming traffic.

Another Chinese officer gave evidence, after which defendant was convicted. Defendant admitted several previous convictions, one being for reckless driving.

SANCTUARIES FOR MEN

MR. BERNARD SHAW'S SUGGESTION

London, July 26. George Bernard Shaw's latest "hunch" is that the world needs sanctuaries for human beings where they can be sure of not being shot.

On his 78th birthday, the white-bearded Irish playwright declared that if the whole world could be made into a bird sanctuary that might be one of the most important steps towards making the world a sanctuary for human beings.

"There are no sanctuaries for human beings at present," Shaw said. "Although the arrangements for shooting them on the largest possible scale have been brought to a perfection never known before, nobody has yet started a society for the protection of human beings, and an institution of sanctuaries where they cannot be shot."

"I am not at all sure that the cult of making a sport of the slaughter of birds has not a great deal to do with that sport of kings—as it has been called—the slaughter of men."—United Press.

ASIATIC LABOUR CONDITIONS

Lower standards of living and wages represent an important factor in the intensive commercial competition which the West has to face from Eastern manufacturers. This fact was evidently in mind when, during the discussion on the annual report of the Director of the International Labour Conference at Geneva recently, emphasis was laid on the desirability of calling an advisory conference composed of representatives of Governments, employers and workers of Asiatic countries, with a view to considering the conditions of labour obtaining in the Far East. This idea has the support of the Asiatic Labour Congress, representative of Ceylonese, Indian and Japanese workers, which met some little time ago at Colombo. One of the reasons why International Labour Conventions have not been given effect to in Asiatic countries is that they have been framed with special reference to European conditions. The point is, however, gradually being realised that if these conventions are to have any real value, they must be based on an international labour code and a universal standard, to which all nations should adhere. If such standards are laid down with existing labour and industrial conditions in mind, there should be a far greater prospect than at present of securing more ratifications of the conventions. In China, particularly, the contract system is one of the obstacles to be overcome. Under it, workers are employed through contractors at low rates of wages, with no direct relations between employers and workers, and, as is easily understandable, the system has given rise to great abuses. Indeed, a delegate to the Geneva conference recently asked that body to take steps with a view to pressing for the abolition of the system. Hopes of action are now centred on the calling of a special Asiatic Conference, in which connection the suggestion is advanced that the Governments of the countries chiefly concerned should sponsor such a step. Whether such a development is likely to occur remains to be seen. But it is becoming increasingly apparent that Asiatic workers are likely, as time goes on to demand better

NOTES OF THE DAY PEACE BALLOT

A flying start has been made in England in the organisation of the Peace Ballot, the plans for which were sprung upon an unsuspecting public a few weeks ago. The intention is to poll as many as possible for people of both sexes over the age of 18, totalling some 35,000,000 at the present time, and it will be considered satisfactory if an expression of opinion is secured from a third of them. Obviously, even the vote of a third may be accepted as representative of the general feeling in the country. The Peace Ballot calls for answers to five questions affecting national policy, such as continued membership of the League, disarmament, private manufacture of arms, sanctions against an aggressor. As an experiment in unofficial plebiscites it is an exceedingly interesting project.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

The Peace Ballot will serve in a measure unattainable by any other means, the two supreme purposes of educating public opinion and putting public opinion upon record. The first will follow from the presentation of the questions. But at the present critical juncture the second purpose is even more urgent. Where the British people stand must be known clearly and indisputably. Such knowledge is necessary for the peace and security of Britain and of the whole world. The Ballot will have an unequalled usefulness, provided the public response is as great as expected, for the Government as well as for the League and friends of the League. It is understood that the British example is being closely watched in other countries in the hope that it will be widely imitated. The method is valuable in many ways; it might even compel governments to listen to the voice of the people.

ART FOR MORALS' SAKE

Great Britain, like most other countries, has not yet discovered any really satisfactory method of dealing with socially deleterious films and until they do there is very little that can be done to remove such complaints as are made in Hongkong. The British Board of Film Censors is a trade body without absolute authority, and there is a strong feeling that it does not apply rigorously the moral standards which those concerned with the welfare of the young consider desirable. Hence it has been suggested that an artistic censorship be established to supplement, or even to supersede, the activities of the board. Among those most seriously working for the welfare and prosperity of art, there is little or no enthusiasm for an exclusively moral censorship. Even the censorship of plays in England, which of late years has been exercised with great discretion, at times has been banded against itself many of the most eminent dramatists. An unwelcome censorship, according to this view, might keep a masterpiece from the public; and to guard against this disservice some persons seem willing to allow the presentation of innumerable film or stage entertainments which have neither artistic nor moral merit.

UNION OF FORCES?

Thus it happens that two influential classes—those who disapprove of worthless films on artistic grounds, and those who disapprove of them on moral grounds—are disunited, with the result that films which both dislike are exhibited without any effective protest. Such a situation gives satisfaction to no one. Yet there is no real reason for this divorce between the progressive sections of the community. If there is one fact which the history of art and literature has really proved, it is this: that no fundamentally immoral work is artistically valuable. On this foundation a union of forces is surely possible. A movement that had for its object the granting of certificates of screening only to such films as made an honest effort after artistic merit might accomplish work of great cultural and social value.

conditions than those under which the great majority at present labour. And the movement will have to be faced sooner or later. The disparity in wage and living standards as between the West and the East is so marked, however, that very many years must elapse before any appreciable impression is made thereon. None the less, the tendency must be in the direction of a gradual narrowing of the gap, and this must obviously be done by the raising of Eastern standards.

FRONTIERS NOW OVERSEAS

THE NEW NATIONAL STRATEGY.

By Major-General Sir C. W. GWYNN.

THERE can be little doubt that the weight of public opinion supports the Government in its decision to revise the standards on which the Fighting Services have recently been maintained. It has evidently become necessary that our national policy should have an adequate backing, to guarantee our security and to exercise a restraining influence on any nation which may seek to resort to war.

But the possession of armed forces is not in itself sufficient. They must be prepared and held in readiness for application on a well-defined strategic conception which has the will of the nation behind it. There exists, however, a marked divergence of view as to the lines our national strategy should follow, and the question is whether, under modern conditions, we have any real choice in the matter as is sometimes claimed.

One school of thought asserts that in the Great War we departed, mistakenly, from our traditional national strategy by taking a direct part in the main struggle. It asserts that we should have confined our efforts to naval pressure and to detached operations designed indirectly to influence the events in the main theatre; and that, therefore, in any future war we should revert to this course, which is claimed to be our traditional strategy. The other school maintains that in the Great War we could not, in the first instance, at any rate, have left Belgium and France without direct assistance. Whether, when the War had stabilised on the Western Front, we might with advantage have transferred our main effort to another theatre is a different matter. The first crisis had passed, and the entry of Turkey into the War introduced new problems for solution. The essential point is that, in the first critical period, no attempt to land an expedition on the Gorman coast, or an attack on her outlying possessions, would have been of material assistance to our Allies.

That surely was what Foch and Sir Henry Wilson meant when, as recorded in the latter's diary, they agreed that our Navy could not bring appreciable relief to France. Their conclusion, interpreted literally, was of course, nonsense, and it is sometimes quoted as an example of the extent to which soldiers fail to appreciate sea power. But may we not fairly assume that these distinguished soldiers must have realised that not a man or a gun of our Army could be landed in France without the protection of the Navy, and that they were merely discussing the question of direct or indirect assistance? Putting aside the many controversial questions connected with the Great War, should we be on safe ground in basing our present-day strategy on pre-war history?

When the Empire was expanding many of our distant enterprises had the object of acquiring new territory, and of consolidating our lines of sea communication quite as much as of affecting the European situation. The Navy was our guarantee of security, and the enemy's coast line was our strategic frontier. The security provided by the Navy gave us liberty to embark on acquisitive adventures, sometimes with disastrous though not fatal results. Yet we did not confine our efforts to distant enterprises, but were prepared to intervene in the main theatre when, as at Waterloo, restoration of the peace of Europe was the main object.

To-day expansion is wiped off our slate and our sole objects are security and peace to use to the best advantage what we have acquired. The Navy remains our main guarantee of security, but with the advent of air power, we all recognize that it can no longer give us complete security. Our strategic frontier for Home defence owing to the air threat lies not on the coast line, but in the hinterland of Western Europe. For that frontier we must be prepared to fight. We cannot allow an enemy to cross it in order to shorten the range of his air attack while remaining ourselves at long range from his vulnerable points.

Obviously our own security is more than ever involved with that of France, Belgium and Holland, and our national strategy in the interests of security centres round the problem of how we can come to their assistance if they are attacked. Is there any way of rendering assistance under modern conditions except by direct support? The Navy has been deprived of much of its power of exercising pressure unless neutral Powers are prepared to waive objections. To land an army in the territory of a civilised enemy possessing air forces and means of rapidly moving reinforcements to the point of attack is an operation which, if feasible at all, entails too many uncertainties to form an acceptable basis of any far-reaching plan. Even if a base for air operations only was required, a port and a considerable extent of ground would have to be captured and held.

Direct intervention—to assist allies who are in a position to offer us port facilities and room for the effective deployment of our Army and Air Force—is the only alternative. And assistance must be given without hesitation or delay if we are not to be faced again with the necessity of recapturing lost ground. Moreover, in the interests of peace the greatest deterrent to an aggressor is the knowledge that immediate and direct assistance will be given to the nation which would bear the brunt of his attack.

Timely assistance, all the more effective if it implies an element of danger to the aggressor, is an obvious way of reducing the power of attack by strengthening that of defence, which the Disarmament Conference accepted as the most hopeful method of securing peace. To proclaim that never again should we allow ourselves to be drawn into direct participation in a European conflict is to bury our head in the sand. No reliance on

The Very Idea!

OUR OWN CENSUS

By Eddie Kelly, Censorless

SINCE the Registration of Aliens Ordinance came into force in Hongkong, 4,200 foreigners have registered their name with the police.

The information contained in the registration forms is said to be invaluable to the authorities.

Unfortunately, it doesn't go far enough.

The other day, for instance, a reader suggested that we should write some pen pictures of the prominent taipans in the Colony.

When we went to the police about it, they were quite rude. Said that what a taipan did after office hours was his own business, and, anyway, people who lived in glass houses, etc., and who were to go probing into other people's affairs.

However, there's a case of beer hanging in the balance as a reward if we write these pen pictures, so we have drawn up a questionnaire of our own.

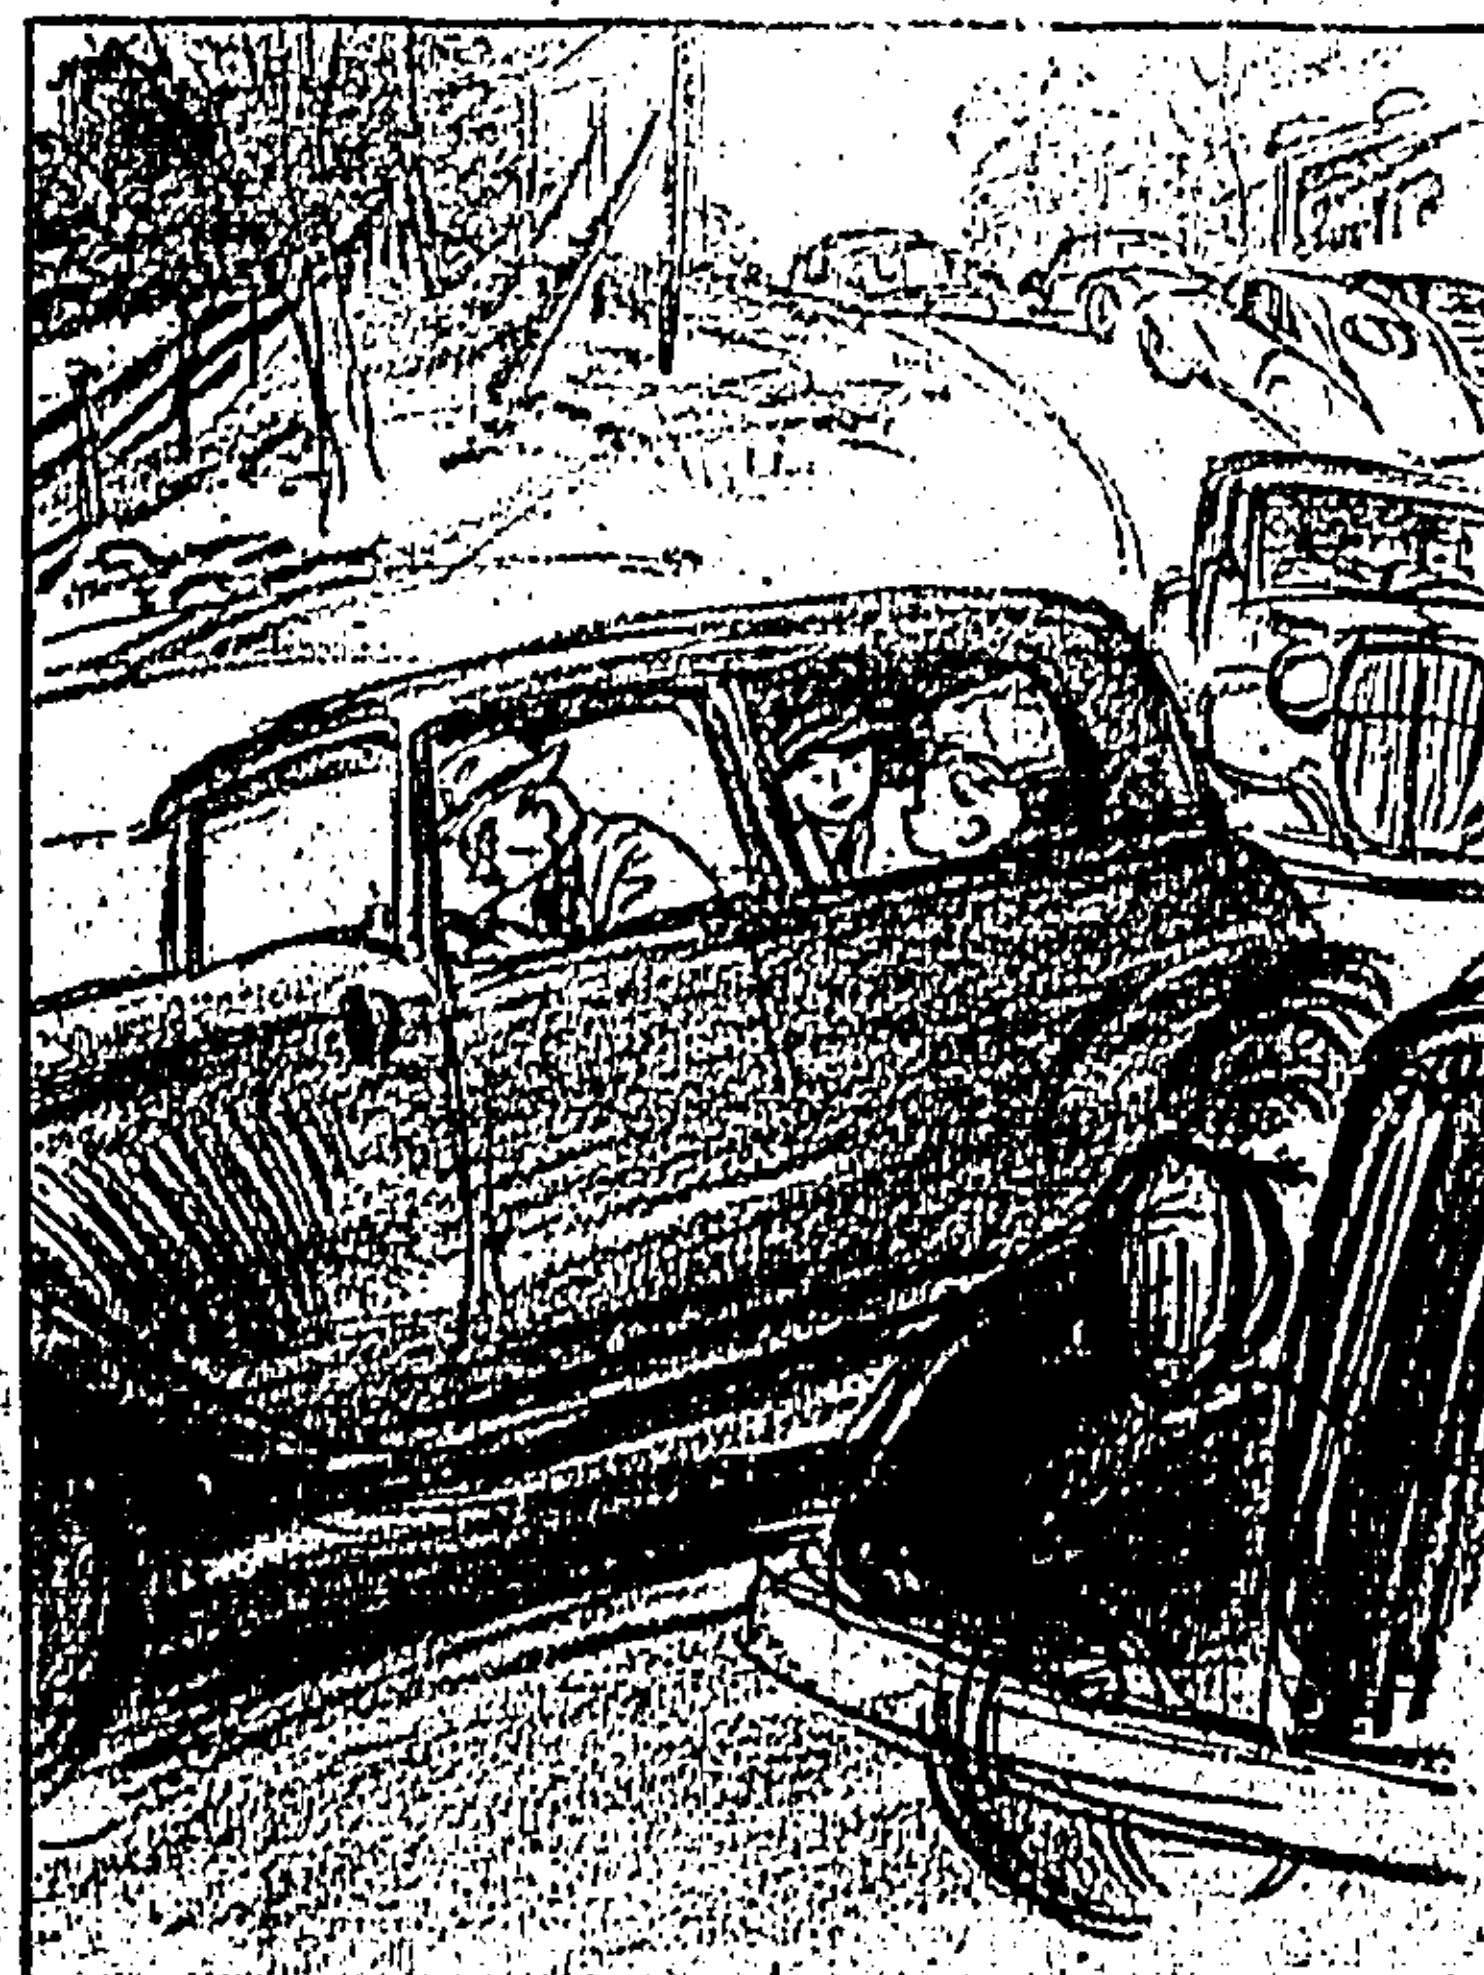

Taipans are particularly requested to fill this questionnaire, and forward it to us, together with next year's subscription to the Telegraph, at their earliest convenience.

outborn precedents will enable us to escape the implications of modern facts.

How, within the limits of tolerable expenditure, the Fighting Services can be made adaptable to their duties as an Imperial Police Force, and at the same time form an effective instrument for meeting the requirements of national strategy, is a sufficiently difficult problem in itself. It will be impossible to find a solution as long as we are doubtful as to the course of action our security demands.

BRITISH TRADE MISSION

PAYING VISIT TO MANCHURIA

PLAN PLEASES PRESS

London, Aug. 9. The possibility of closer trade relations between Britain and Manchukuo is envisaged in an announcement made this evening.

The Federation of British Industries has decided to send an industrial mission to Manchukuo in the immediate future, for the purpose of studying conditions there and ascertaining whether British industry can co-operate with the local interests in its development.

The mission will also pay a short visit of courtesy and goodwill to Japan with the object of establishing friendly contact with representative organisations of Japanese industry and commerce.

A STRONG MISSION.

It is announced that the mission will be composed of Lord Harby, a Director of Lloyd's Bank and the Central Electricity Board, Sir Charles Seligman, the well-known banker and member of the Advisory Committee of the Export Credits Department of the Board of Trade, Mr. Guy Harold Locock, the British Industries Fair expert and a Director of the F. B. I., and Mr. Julian Pigott, Tokyo-born manager of the British Steel Export Association, who is representing the British Iron and Steel Federation.—Reuter.

TORIES APPLAUD PROPOSAL

Labour Journal Suspicious

Later. The F.B.I. Mission to Manchukuo is welcomed by The Times as proof that the possibility of finding new markets in the Far East is not being ignored by British manufacturers.

It may be taken for granted, the article proceeds, that the members of the mission will take the opportunity to visit also some of the principal centres of Chinese trade and to establish friendly contacts with the leaders of Chinese business and finance.

POLITICS?

The mission is also welcomed by the Morning Post which says that friendship with Japan can best be confirmed by mutual understanding and by seeking common solutions of common problems.

In this spirit, the mission promises to be a source of political as well as economic gain to both countries.

QUESTIONABLE TACTICS.

The Daily Herald, however, thinks that the success of the mission will depend upon political concessions from Britain and says that under such circumstances, the mission appears to be a very questionable manoeuvre.—Reuter.

HOW WOMAN WAS VICTIMISED

How an unemployed man, Cheng Muk, obtained $50 from a woman, Cheung Ho, by stating that her husband was in trouble with the police at Singapore, and how he tried to obtain a further $20 from her on the same pretence, was the story told Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Cheng Muk was charged.

The defendant was charged with having obtained $50 by false pretences from Cheung Ho at No. 8 Tai On Street, second floor, and attempting to obtain $20 from complainant on August 8 by false pretences.

Inspector Logan said defendant worked on a ship on which complainant's husband was also employed. On August 2 he went to complainant and obtained $50 from her, saying it was for her husband who had got into trouble with the police in Singapore. On August 8 he went again, and tried to obtain $20, but complainant's husband had returned and he was not successful.

Defendant admitted both charges. Mr. Hamilton imposed a total of six months' hard labour, remarking that it was a very mean theft.

Chan Lee and Chan Yau, unemployed were sentenced to twelve months' hard labour each by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for returning from banishment. The first defendant was a Singapore banished.

"I wanted tea money," was the explanation of a man who gave Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning when he admitted stealing three dishes from an eating house in Aberdeen Street. Defendant was arrested in a pawnshop. The magistrate found the man over a bond of $25 for a period of six months.

A ladies' fur coat, a gentleman's overcoat, a fountain pen and three powder boxes, formed the subject of a charge of unlawful possession against Tam Shun, 27, unemployed, before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning. The man was arrested by a Chinese constable at the Tung On Wharf and could not give a satisfactory explanation. Det-Sgt. W. Gowans applied for a remand until to-morrow. The charge may be amended as we have now got a complainant in the case. Defendant was remanded in police custody.

CORRESPONDENCE

British Films.

To the Editor. Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—At last we have reached the climax. People in this colony have tried all means to give us British films, but if we refuse, does anyone deem it a fair suggestion to tax "alien" films?

Verily I would agree that most British films shown here are old, but I ask the film-fans only to consider for a moment, then compare the British film "Stark Nature" and "Trader Horn." The latter is (if I am not mistaken) much older than the former, but look at the vastly superior entertainment!

One must bear in mind that, after all, films are only for entertainment and such amusement cannot be forced on the people; on the contrary, the film show attracts the audience and its fans. The public want their money's worth and not pay to suffer through patriotism. Nevertheless, I am not prejudiced, and often attend British films myself, but I heartily desire that such a means as taxing will not be employed in order to establish British films in Hongkong.

NATIONALISATION OF SILVER

ing its right in an "eminent domain."

"I am very relieved that it is all over," he added. Some circles on the Stock Exchange regard the move as an indication that the Government will try to reply to the growing agitation for inflation by more vigorous pursuit of the silver purchase plan.

OVERTHROW OF GOLD BLOC.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, one of the leaders in the drive for the so-called rehabilitation of silver, hailed the announcement of nationalisation as "the overthrow of the world-wide gold bloc and the beginning of a new world monetary system and a new era of prosperity."

He declared that the decision of the United States for the wider use of silver as money would cause other nations to adopt a similar policy. He also pointed out that the Government would still need to purchase a thousand million ounces to meet the ratio with gold as set by Congress, and added that the nationalisation order was tantamount to a declaration that there is not enough gold in the world to satisfy its demands for money.

The world will return to silver, he said.—Reuter.

EIGHTY CENTS AN OUNCE?

Nevada Operators' Hopes

Reno, Nevada, Aug. 9. The nationalisation of silver will not have any immediate effect upon the Nevada silver mining industry in the opinion of operators here, as the nationalisation price has been fixed at a point lower than that established for newly-mined silver under the proclamation of December last. American silver producers obtain 64.5 cents an ounce for their newly-mined metal. There are no stocks of silver bullion held in Nevada at the present time as far as known.

EXECUTIVE RECOGNITION.

The Secretary of the Nevada Mine Operators Association, in an interview with Reuter, said that the President's proclamation gave silver the executive recognition for which the silver mines have been fighting.

Nevada operators are hoping for the stabilisation of the price of the metal at a price of eighty cents an ounce, or more, which they declare to be necessary for the profitable operation of large low-grade properties, the exploitation of which is now dormant, and to warrant the inception of development work.—Reuter.

KENT'S CLEAR-CUT VICTORY OVER
NOTTINGHAMSHIRE

EATSMAN'S GREAT BOWLING FOR
ESSEX: CROOM IN FORM

London, Aug. 9.

Notts' debacle against Kent at Canterbury to-day does not augur very well for their much-anticipated match with the Australians which starts on Saturday.

The Midlanders were made to look very sick by the stalwarts of Kent, who were on their headquarters health at Canterbury.

The Notts attack was fairly colorless, and Kent were able to apply the closure at 446 for G. Frank Woolley, who is always at his best on the home grounds, delighted with an innings of 101, and the rest of the batsmen contributed useful scores.

After Woolley had faded out of the picture, Marriott and Freeman stepped in. The two spin bowlers tied Notts up in knots. Marriott was especially effective, the schoolmaster having aggregate figures over two innings of 11 for 83.

Notts were dismissed in their first innings for 116, Freeman taking 6 for 62 and Marriott 4 for 27.

Following on they did a little better, but were sent back for 175, Marriott capturing 7 for 56, and Kent thus won by an innings and 154 runs.

EASY FOR ESSEX.

Essex also accomplished a clear-cut victory in two days against Somerset, winning by ten wickets. Farnes reminded the Test selectors of his claims for August 18 by taking 4 for 35 in Somerset's first innings, but the real destroyer was Eastman, who actually secured four wickets without conceding a single run. Somerset were all out for 60.

Essex did not do too well in their reply, finding Hazell's deliveries a constant source of trouble. Hazell finally returned the impressive figures of 7 for 77, Essex being sent back for 126.

But Somerset failed at the wicket a second time, being dismissed for 111, and Essex collected the required 46 runs without loss.

CROOM'S ALL-ROUND FORM.

Croom, who on Wednesday took four Australian wickets, very cheaply, to-day followed up this performance with some sound batting which earned him 61 runs.

Warwickshire made a smart recovery from their unhappy overnight position of 20 for 3, and finally compiled 179. Santall assisted Croom to overcome the Australian attack, and his 61 was a splendid effort.

Clarrie Grimmett returned to form with the ball, taking 5 for 76. The Australians, who thus started their second innings 42 runs to the good batted in carefree style to put 135 on the board for the loss of 4 wickets before the close of play.

Stanley McCabe hit up 77 in quick time, and Darling reached the 50 mark before losing his wicket.—Reuter.

CRICKET

H.M.S. FOLKESTONE LOSES

The H.M.S. Folkestone cricket eleven was fielded on the Union Jack grounds at the Race Course, Shanghai, last week, for the first time since the vessel was recommissioned last April in Hongkong, and suffered a severe wicket defeat at the hands of the more practised H.M.S. Sandpiper team, largely due to lack of bowling strength.

The Folkestone team batted first and was dismissed in short time, the only member managing to make double figures being Sub-Lt. Hodgkinson, the "J. O." of the vessel, who knocked out a pretty 39, a considerable portion of the total of 51, which included five extras.

H.K.C.C. WIN SMARTLY

BEAT K.C.C. BY
5½-3½

LEAGUE TENNIS

Robbed of the services of R. B. Lewis who formed such a successful partnership with Burnett this season, the Kowloon Cricket Club suffered defeat in their last match of the season yesterday, when they met the Hongkong Cricket Club in a "B" Division encounter.

The Cricket Club, also without Trull and Dunham, did extremely well to collect 5½ sets, although it cannot be said that the visitors were at their best.

T. C. Monaghan and V. R. Gordon proved the most successful Cricket Club pair, capturing two and a half sets. They made an excellent recovery against Gray and Oppenheim in the first set, when they trailed 1-3, and actually led at 6-5 later on.

Gamble and Pote-Hunt, who played splendidly in their first two sets, went to pieces in the third round, losing six-love.

Zimmern and Stapleton had the unusual experience of losing all three sets, while Burnett and Broadbridge, having never played before, found difficulty in settling down.

Scores:
T. C. Monaghan and V. R. Gordon (H.K.C.C.) drew with S. A. Gray and L. Oppenheim 6-6; beat G. C. Burnett and F. A. Broadbridge 6-3; beat F. Zimmern and C. I. Stapleton 7-5.

E. R. Price and Coupp (H.K.C.C.) lost to Gray and Oppenheim 3-6; lost to Burnett and Broadbridge 3-6; beat Zimmern and Stapleton 6-3.

G. R. Gamble and J. Pote-Hunt (H.K.C.C.) lost to Gray and Oppenheim 6-6; beat Burnett and Broadbridge 6-4; beat Zimmern and Stapleton 6-2.

RECREIO DEFEATED THE INDIAN R.C.

The postponed tie in the "B" Division of the Lawn Tennis League between the Club de Recreio and the Indian Recreation Club was played off yesterday at King's Park, and resulted in a win for the Club de Recreio by seven sets to two. Scores: L. A. da Silva and J. J. Remedios (Recreio) beat M. O. Hosen and M. A. Razack 6-4; drew with D. M. A. Razack and A. J. Sulfad 6-6; lost to A. K. Sulfad and F. D. Pereira 6-6.

A. A. Remedios and W. A. Reed (Recreio) beat Hosen and Abbas 6-3; beat Razack and Sulfad 6-3; beat Sulfad and Pereira 6-3.

H. A. Ribeiro and A. M. Rodrigues (Recreio) beat Hosen and Abbas 6-3; beat Razack and Sulfad 6-2; drew with Sulfad and Pereira 6-6.

CARNERA TO FIGHT

IN BUENOS AIRES
ON OCT. 20

PROBABLY MEET VZCUDUN

New York, Aug. 6. Fight promoters to-day announced that Primo Carnera, deposed Italian heavyweight champion of the world, signed articles to appear in Buenos Aires October 20 his opponent as yet unselected.

Ring observers, however believe that Da Preem's opponent will be none other than Paulina Uzcudun, Basque Wood-Chopper, whom the Man Mountain has beaten on several occasions.

Primo has spent most of the time since his disastrous defeat at the hands of Max (Modest) Maxie) Baer in a New York hospital, where he was taken the morning following the fight, suffering from several torn ligaments in his ankle.

Thus his match in Buenos Aires, expected to draw a tremendous crowd, will be his first appearance in the squared circle since June 14, the night on which Baer knocked the world's crown off his Goliathian locks.

MAKING "COME-BACK".

It was expected by many that the huge foreigner will use this match as the first in a series of comeback starts. Shown moving pictures of his fight with Baer while he was in the hospital the Italian reiterated his belief that he was the American's superior despite the terrific beating which he took.

A victory over Uzcudun, if he should meet him in Buenos Aires, would give Carnera an excellent start on a comeback trail. The aging Spaniard holds a 1931 decision over Maxie Baer to his credit. A win for Carnera would mean that the Italian would probably have to meet two or three other top-notchers in America, before voicing a challenge for the crown which he once bore, that would receive attention.

Shanghai Win Tennis Interport

EASILY BEAT TIENTSIN

Tientsin, Aug. 5. Shanghai to-day won the coveted Taggart Cup by registering their third win in the four matches thus far played in the Interport tennis competition against Tientsin. One more contest, a singles, remains to be played, but it will have no bearing insofar as the trophy is concerned.

The visitors, who led by two matches to one at the end of play yesterday, won the first doubles to-day, Maurice Bonavitch and L. D. Carson defeating C. A. Rumjahn and Omar Rumjahn in one of the most gruelling matches ever witnessed here. The score was 9-7, 9-7, 2-6, 1-6, 7-5.

A large crowd of spectators turned out to witness the contest and were rewarded with some sparkling tennis. The local players staged a remarkable reversal of form in the third and fourth sets, but in the final and deciding set Omar Rumjahn developed a cramp in one of his legs when the score stood at four games all.

The match was held up for a few minutes to enable Rumjahn to recover, but the break seemed to upset the local players as Bonavitch and Carson definitely assumed command when play was resumed.

On Friday, Tientsin won the opening singles when Omar

LANCASHIRE'S MAGNIFICENT RECOVERY OF FORM

Puts Them In Line For The Cricket Championship: Daring Tate

While the third Test Match was being played at Old Trafford on a pitch whose perfection of itself prohibited any definite conclusion to the game, there were some much more material "goings on" in the County Championship, which is apt not to receive its full attention when the Australians in their big green caps are striding the country.

Without unnecessarily raking up a subject which has already had many more words written about it than it was worth, is it not possible rather too much was made of the catches missed by the English side at Old Trafford? asks a London Observer correspondent. Is it not a fact that missed catches always have been and always will be coincident with big scores? The history of Test Match cricket is bristling with occasions when a huge partnership and a later a huge score was built on a fieldersman's error.

Time was, and not so many months ago, when jokes about Lancashire's slumberous batting were a recognised feature of contemporary play. A Lancastrian—particularly a Manchester—delighted in telling you the most lethargic of their players, but now all that is altered. They win matches out-some, and gallantly—nine victories already this season, which is only one less than Sussex and actually one more than Yorkshire. None of these successes can have given their splendid captain, who has had something to put up with in the past, so much pleasure as that on Friday over Worcester.

Sussex, who have a good level team, the most cheerful reading is the habit Lancashire have formed of winning matches. shire, who, for their part, have had by no means a bad season.

Lancashire in this match at Blackpool were 108 runs behind on the first innings, having batted first, and they had lost six wickets in their second innings before they had cleared off the arena. There was then one of those great revivals by the ball and batsmen which is one of the greatest things which cricket can offer. Duckworth—I can see him bustling out on to the ground like a kitten from underneath the sofa with an expression on his face which says, "I'm here"—scored 20 runs, no doubt with all the grand manner of one who has been accustomed to make centuries in the highest company. It has been said, not without some reason—that the modern cricketers hear the same resemblance to each other of tin soldiers in a box, but here you have in Duckworth a man—and it is funny how often people of this kind are little more of a tremendous personality, and incidentally the best wicket-keeper in the

Jones & Grimmett Beat Bradbury And Omar

F. J. Jones and A. W. Grimmett, of the Civil Service Cricket Club, defeated B. W. Bradbury and U. M. Omar of the Craigengower C.C. in the semi-final of the Lawn Bowls Pairs Championship by 23 shots to 15 on the T. Perkins' of the Police, yesterday afternoon.

The match was postponed from July 31 when rain fell on the ninth head with the Civil Service couple leading by 13 shots to six. They added ten shots yesterday while the Craigengower pair recorded nine shots.

Jones and Grimmett will meet W. K. Way and A. S. Gomes in the final round.

SINGLES MATCH.

In the Open Singles Championship, A. Chapman, of the Tacht Club, defeated T. Perkins, of the Police, by 24 shots to 11, on the Craigengower Green.

Playing on the Kowloon Cricket Club green, R. Duncan, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, defeated H. A. Jones, of the Club de Recreio, by 21 shots to 15.

QUARTER FINALS In Open Singles

The draw for the quarter-finals of the Open Singles championship has resulted as follows.

Their best performance was to beat the Welsh couple after an thrilling encounter by one shot. The cool manner in which they set about collecting this all-important shot evoked much favourable comment, and they received many expressions of congratulations on the feat.

Prior to this match Wales had only lost two matches out of six, and were challenging Canada for second place.

Against South Africa, Cooper and Rapley won with ease with nine points to spare. They were much too good for the South Africans, who suffered their sixth reverse.

Wales and South Africa enjoyed their revenge in the singles and rinks. Hyde-Lay found his two opponents a little too strong, and although he offered plucky resistance, lost 21-15 to Wales and 21-14 to South Africa.

NEARLY WON.

The Rink went very near to recording their initial victory when opposed to South Africa, but they could not stand the pace, and were eventually defeated by two shots. South Africa had a highly successful day, winning four out of five matches, and recording the biggest victory of the day. Their rise overcame the Rhodesian four by the huge margin of 37-8. Another big win was that of Ireland over Australia, the scores being 33-13.

A Reuter message states that England are now certain of retaining the pairs championship, and Scotland are virtual winners of the singles. The rinks is still a very open affair, with Ireland and England fighting for the leadership. At the present Ireland have 100 per cent. record from seven matches, while England have played one more, but have also lost one.

Yesterday's results follow.

"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE"

got all jazzed up about me when I first came in. He keeps looking at her, too! Edgar's always been in love with her—I hope that little pink jelly-bean he married knows it! And as for Howard, he doesn't see that anyone else exists! If I could only stop wanting him; I could have loved him a hundred times as much as she does. Anyway, it's my child in this house. He calls himself its father. That's something, even if Amy calls herself its mother. It's my child. I'm glad I let her take it. Oh, she's so damned smug. What's her secret?

Amy sitting down the table did not know that Jane resented and hated her anew. She did not hate Jane. She did not think of her, nor of the others, very clearly. They were all blurred except Howard. "This is the end," something within was reminding her, "this is the end. To-morrow everything will be changed. To-morrow we must start a new strange life in a new strange world. To-morrow! To-morrow!" The feeling that the family was solid, the family would protect and shelter her, had gone. The war was a black shadow which fell across the family and blotted out the one she loved the most.

SNATCHER SENT TO GAOL

STOLEN MONEY NOT RECOVERED

The theft of $40 from a boarder of the Mei Chau Hotel in Queen's Road Central on August 3, when he was jostled by two men and a third escaped with the money, had a further sequel before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning when Chnn Fuk, aged 22, was charged with stealing and pleaded guilty.

Detective-Inspector K. W. Andrew explained that the defendant was the man who ran away with the money, which had not been recovered. He had a previous conviction in 1929.

"He is well-known to the detectives as a pickpocket," he added.

Six months' hard labour was imposed.

The two men who jostled the complainant were dealt with last week.

R.A.F. TRAGEDY AT KAI TACK

DENIAL OF STORY OF TWO WOUNDS

SHOT BELIEVED ACCIDENTAL

Flying Officer George R. Murphy, Adjutant of the R.A.F. Base at Kai Tak, met his death in a tragic manner last night as the result of an accidental shot from his own revolver.

No-one actually witnessed the incident, which occurred in the Officers' Mess, but it is thought that Flying Officer Murphy was either examining or cleaning his revolver, or was about to put it away, when through some means or other the weapon was accidentally discharged. At any rate, shortly before seven o'clock, the deceased officer was discovered lying in his room with a bullet wound in his left breast and the revolver by his side.

The wounded officer was immediately rushed to the Kowloon Hospital, but he succumbed to his injuries some two hours later.

SUICIDE DISCOUNTED

Reports that there were two wounds and that there were indications that these had been self-inflicted were denied by Squadron Leader C. R. Keary, Officer Commanding the Base, this morning, who stated that there was no evidence to show that the shooting was anything but accidental.

Flying Officer Murphy, who was 27 years of age, came to Hongkong from Singapore some five months ago. He was a most popular officer, and his tragic death has greatly shocked his fellow-officers.

The funeral takes place this afternoon, leaving Wellington Barracks at 4.45 p.m. and passing the Monument at 5 p.m.

Industrial shares mostly left off a trifle under the best points.—British Wireless.
